SOLD MILLION BUSHELS OF WHEAT. E. T. Maynard, named by Agriculture Secretary Clinton P. Anderson as the man who had sold one million bushels of wheat prior to the current market break, sits in his office of the Chicago Board of Trade building and studies a price ticker. Maynard said in an interview he had no government "inside" information and he was merely conducting an ordinary trading operation. (Associated Press Wirephoto)

Congress To Call Trader Who Made Market "Killing"

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb 12—E T Maynard of Chicago will be asked to tell congressional investigators how he turned the grain market slump into a $200,000-plus profit

The only question today is which of three interested committees will get to him first.

The three are the senate agriculture committee, a senate appropriations subcommittee inquiring into speculation, and a similar special group in the house

Secretary of Agriculture Anderson said yesterday Maynard made more than $200,000 in wheat, another $40,000 to $50,000 in cotton and an undetermined amount in oats.

Senator Knowland (R-Calif), a member of the senate appropriations subcommittee, told reporters:

"I would advise you to keep in close touch with the committee next week." There were unconfirmed reports the group would call Maynard in Monday.

In Chicago, Maynard offered this statement as the key to his success in the market.

"All you had to do to know prices were going down was to read the newspapers."

Anderson told the agriculture group that Maynard had "no inside information" and that "no corruption" was involved.

AMERICAN AIRLINES MARION STOP DENIED

Appeals of Other Cities Also Rejected by CAB.

(Account of Marion's Airport construction plans is on page 7.)

The civil aeronautics board has denied Marion service by American Airlines, according to an Associated Press report from Washington today.

The CAB yesterday revised the Great Lakes case decision dealing with airline service in this region, granting American Airlines authorization for flights between Cleveland and St. Louis, but denying all applications by cities for rehearing on their request for service by American Airlines.

The company had proposed Marion as a stop on a north-south trunk line which would afford through service to the southern cities and Florida. In the Great Lakes case, all airlines with the exception of TWA had been denied proposed routes that would serve Marion. Service here by TWA is assured.

Marion had filed application with the CAB for reconsideration of the Great Lakes decision. Other cities filing petitions included Akron, Cincinnati, Columbus, Dayton, Youngstown, Cleveland and Springfield, O.; Evansville, Ind.; Nashville, Tenn.; St. Louis, and Decatur, Champaign and Urbana, Ill.

Also among the petitioners for revision of the original decision were eight air lines, the University of Illinois, the Kentucky Aeronautics Commission, the Canton, O. Chamber of Commerce, the Louisville and Jefferson county air board and the Louisville board of trade.

(It was the Great Lakes decision which brought an exchange of correspondence between the mayor of Columbus, O., and James M. Landis, former chairman of the CAB, in which the mayor implied that Landis was biased in favor of a particular air line).

5 SCOUTS GET EAGLE AWARD

Lt. Gov. Paul Herbert Makes Presentation at Court of Honor.

The Eagle Scout award, one of the highest ranks in Scouting, was presented to five Scouts of the Harding Area, Boy Scouts of America, at the annual Eagle Court of Honor held last night The ceremony, a part of the local observance of the 38th anniversary of the founding of the Boy Scout movement in America, was conducted in the station studios of Radio Station WMRN and broadcast over that station.

Guest speaker was Lt. Gov. Paul Herbert of Columbus, who also made the presentations.

Receiving the award were Dr. C. E Hershey and Roger Bastian, both of Troop 39, Emmanuel Baptist church, Dean Drake and Wallace Musgrave, both of Troop 15, Emanuel Lutheran church, and James Robinson of Troop 13, Christ Lutheran church of Carey. Dr. Hershey, who is pastor of Emmanuel Baptist church, is chairman of the Boy Scout troop sponsored by the church.

Herbert Congratulates Scouts

Lt Gov. Herbert, in his talk to the Scouts, stressed the accomplishments which the Scouts had achieved as Boy Scouts, and congratulated them on the work they have done for Scouting in the Harding Area He urged them to go on further into life as good Scouts, continuing to make good and being better citizens as a result of their Scout training Lt. Gov. Herbert explained to the boys that they have just started on the work and years ahead of them, and asked them to do everything possible as Scouts for the future good of their country.

Jim Graner, Marion district publicity chairman, opened the meeting, and Robert T. Mason, Boy Scout executive board member, welcomed the Scouts. Presiding as chairman of the court of honor was Juvenile Judge Edward J. Ruzzo, who opened the court. The invocation was given by Dr. Hershey, the pledge to the flag was led by Roger Bastian, and the Scout's oath was led by Dean Drake

Wagner Gives Purpose

Dr. A J. Wagner, council advancement chairman, gave the purpose of the court, and Judge Ruzzo appointed W. T. Buchanan, Marion district publicity co-chairman, scribe, who brought the honored Scouts before the court. Dr. Robert T. Gray, council president, introduced Lt Gov. Herbert.

Congratulations to the new Eagle Scouts were given by James E. Frew, Marion district chairman, Charles Smith, district commissioner, and Howard Ropke, assistant district commissioner. Mr. Frew congratulated them on their fine accomplishments of the past, Mr. Smith reminded them of their religious duties, and Mr. Ropke urged them to remember the responsibilities of later life To illustrate this, he used the meaning of the Scout compass of life which is north, duty to God, east, duty to the country, south, duty to others, and west, duty to self.

About 35 persons were present at the program, including Scout commissioners, Scout officials and parents and families of the five honored Scouts. A dinner at Hotel Harding for members of the Boy Scout advancement committee and Lt. Gov. Herbert preceded the broadcast.

Tonight, a 15-minute broadcast dealing with Scouting is to be given over Station WMRN. The program will be a Scout recording issued by the National Boy Scout office.

PRICE SOLUTION SEEN BY TAFT IN MARKET DIP

Ohioan Declares Decline May Have Solved Problem of Rising Costs.

By The Associated Press

ST PAUL, Minn., Feb. 12—Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said today a recent dip in the commodity markets may have solved the problems of price-wage spiral.

Here for a major foreign policy speech tonight, Taft told a news conference he does not believe faltering commodities prices point toward any general depression.

But the Ohio senator said he hopes that "we may now look toward a straightening out of the curve of inflation."

"If that takes place," he said, "then we will have the problem of adjusting those things which are out of line"

"In this connection it may become necessary for the government to support the price of wheat and other commodities at the parity level return for farmers which, he said, congress has promised to maintain throughout 1948.

Sees No Effect on Taxes

Asked if the drop in commodities prices would halt attempts to reduce federal taxes, Taft said he foresaw no such result. He said only a general depression would be likely to reduce revenues so sharply as to make it impossible to cut taxes.

"I see no reason to think this drop will bring a depression or interefere with full employment unless it becomes much more serious than it now appears," Taft said.

Taft today invaded the nominally hostile territory of Minnesota. Here Former Gov. Harold E. Stratten, who broke the unwritten rules by challenging Taft's Ohio backing for the Republican presidential nomination, is strongly entrenched.

In fact, Stassen is credited with such grass roots support in this state that Taft's backers say their friends will not raise their heads publicly until what they regard as an opportune time at the Philadelphia GOP convention.

Stassen Men Confident

Stassen's supporters contend that time never will come. But the Taft people remain outwardly confident they can land on their feet wit hthe Minnesota delegation of 25 if Stassen fails to make the grade.

Taft's midwestern reception has thus far not been such as to change his views of any of the major issues of the day.

He got his biggest applause of the trip at Hammond yesterday when he demanded that Europeans show signs they intend to help themselves before they receive any help from the United States.

"I'm in favor of aid to Europe, but I think it ought to be administered with due regard to the American taxpayer," the Ohioan asserted.

With this as a primary creed, Taft was expected to call in a Lincoln speech here tonight for a tough policy of administering

Moscow Says Britain, France Used Hitler Against Soviets

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, Feb. 12—Russia says Great Britain and France before the war encouraged Adolf Hitler to turn the German army against the Soviet Union

She charges they let Germany take over Czechoslovakia and, in the pact of Munich and others, entered into non-aggression agreements with Germany's fuehrer.

These accusations were made in a statement issued last night by the Soviet information bureau. In support of them, the bureau cited German foreign office documents for 1937 and 1938 which it said the Red army had captured

The statement was Russia's second in reply to publication of papers on Nazi-Soviet relations by the United States. This one said little about the U. S.

(The U. S. state department published captured documents Jan 21 which said Hitler and Stalin plotted to split up Poland, dominate the Balkans and shut the western powers out of Europe altogether.

(In Washington last night, no comment was forthcoming from the department on the latest Soviet statement

(The British foreign office and the French foreign ministry did not comment either. In London, a foreign-office spokesman said Britain's official reply, if any, would be withheld pending a check on how the statement was documented.)

The Soviet communique said British-French policy before the war was aimed "at isolating the U.S.S.R. and directing Hitlerite aggression towards the east against the Soviet Union, using Hitler as a tool for their own ends"

Say Anschluss Ignored

It declared Hitler's annexation of Austria March 12, 1938, met no resistance on the part of Britain and France and that in the face of Czechoslovakia's appeals for help against Germany under a mutual assistance pact "The Anglo-French rulers remained implacable"

Russia alone, the communique said, raised a voice of warning at the time of anschluss and championed Czechoslovak independence. It remarked that Britain and France, "hypocritically" declared they did not know whether or not the Soviet Union would live up to its pledges" to Czechoslovakia. This it called a "deliberate lie"

The bureau said the Munich pact of Sept 30, 1938, between the late British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and Hitler and subsequent agreements essentially "meant both Britain and France concluded with Hitler non-aggression pacts"

"* * * In their desire to ward off the menace of Hitlerite aggression from their countries," it declared "(They) believed that the Munich agreement and similar ones flung the gates wide open for Hitlerite aggression in the east —aggression against the Soviet Union."

60,000 RAIL WORKERS CONSIDERED BY CIO

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Feb. 12—Delegates at a convention of CIO Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers today considered absorbing 60,000 railroad workers into their organization

Meeting for the 13th time, the unionists had scheduled a talk by Walter Reuther of the CIO-United Auto Workers for this afternoon However, Reuther telegraphed he would be unable to attend because of a Labor Board hearing in Detroit

In his place, convention spokesmen said, there will be a speech by Allan Haywood, CIO vice president and director of organization

His talk probably will start a hot discussion on whether to take in members of the United Railroad Workers, an independent union of non-operating (maintenance) employes.

Yesterday, the union increased its membership to 115,000 by accepting 25,000 metal workers who withdrew from the CIO Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers last fall

A resolution pledging full support to the CIO and CIO President Philip Murray on their indictment by a Federal Grand Jury for alleged violation of the Taft-Hartley Act's political expenditures ban was adopted yesterday.

The convention challenged constitutionality of the Act and instructed its incoming national of-

Society Gets Startling News— Winthrop Rockefeller To Wed

By International News Service

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 12—Palm Beach was in a dither today over the unexpected—some said startling—word that Winthrop Rockefeller has filed notice of his intention to wed Mrs. Barbara Sears, 31-year-old blond New York divorcee.

First word of the impending marriage of the man regarded as the world's most eligible bachelor came in the following announcement from Rockefeller's New York office:

"Mrs. Barbara Sears, daughter of Mrs. Peter Neveckas of Chicago, Illinois, and Mr. Winthrop Rockefeller, son of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Rockefeller Jr., of New York made application for a marriage license today at Okeechobee, Fla.

"Mrs. Sears attended Northwestern university and made her debut in Chicago in 1933. Her former marriage to Mr. Richard Sears was terminated by divorce. . . . . Plans for the wedding have not yet been announced."

The 35-year-old grandson of the late John D. Rockefeller, billionaire founder of Standard Oil Co., declined comment when reached at the home of friends in Palm Beach where he is staying.

Although no date was announced for the wedding they could be married tomorrow under Florida's three-day waiting law and many believe that is the date they have selected.

SNAG HIT BY LABOR DRIVE

Campaign To Beat Congressmen Runs Into Double-Barreled Trouble.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12—Organized labor's drive to swing the 1948 elections ran into double trouble today.

The two big complications seemed to be:

1. The possible chilling effect of a grand jury indictment on union political spending

2. Divided political loyalty within the ranks of both AFL and CIO

The indictment was returned by a federal grand jury here yesterday. It cited the CIO and its president, Philip Murray, under the section of the Taft-Hartley act which bans use of union money for political purposes.

A CIO strategist said privately the indictment is bound to discourage unions from campaign spending.

Even if the unions doubt the government can make the indictment stick, he said, "as a practical matter it will deter them"

The CIO contends the section of the law involved is unconstitutional. Its lawyers hope to get a supreme court ruling before the high tribunal takes its summer recess in June.

Both After Scalps

Both the AFL and CIO have as their aim the defeat of congressmen who voted for the Taft-Hartley act But both are finding it hard to make their members stay hitched to a single line of political action

DEWEY TO PROPOSE NEW PLAN FOR PEACE

By The Associated Press

ENROUTE TO BOSTON WITH DEWEY, Feb 12—Gov Thomas E Dewey will accuse the Truman administration tonight of serious "failures" in handling America's foreign policy and propose a "constructive" plan for building a "lasting peace."

The New York governor will deliver his attack in a Lincoln day speech at Boston.

It is his first major address since he became an avowed candidate for the Republican presidential nomination last month and his third invasion of doubtful New England in the last five months.

In a statement disclosing the theme of the speech, Paul E. Lockwood, Dewey's secretary, said:

"The failures of the foreign policy of the present national administration have brought about confusion among the American people and fear that we are drifting toward another catastrophe.

"Governor Dewey will propose a specific and constructive program which he believes to be essential for the building of a lasting peace."

DECLINE TENDS TO SLACKEN IN LAST TRADING

Fall Continued Yesterday But Appeared To Be Losing Some Violence.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 13—Plunging market prices took an enforced "breather" today after a week-long rampage United States commodity and securities markets were closed in observance of Lincoln's birthday

The first decisive break in the rising price level came on Feb. 4. Since then prices have nose-dived on commodity and security exchanges, and to a lesser extent in wholesale food and raw material markets. Grains and cotton led the slide. It still was on yesterday, but appeared to be losing some of its violence

Last Friday the consumer felt the first effects of the widening breaks New retail food price cuts were on the line last night The retail price of flour and lard fell Bacon and some cuts of beef were cheaper in many stores. Bread prices were down.

Reaction spread yesterday to securities markets around the world. Stocks tumbled in Manila, Copenhagen, Sydney and Toronto There was a slump on the London market, but prices there recovered before the British exchange closed for the day.

Temporary Grain Rallies

There were temporary rallies in the prices of grain during the week, but they were short-lived.

The worst day of the week-long melee was Tuesday, when prices fell like ten pins Stocks tumbled $1 to $5 a share Tuesday and sent the Associated Press average down to a new low since last June. Never before were so many issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange

"The back of inflation has been broken," said A. W. Zelomek of New York, economic counsellor and president of the International Statistical Bureau, a private organization. Many economists agreed.

Zelomek predicted commodity prices would fall 20 to 25 per cent within nine months. Most economists were chary, however, with any predictions for the future.

Secretary of Agriculture Anderson blamed mass speculation by small traders for the "boom and bust" commodity market.

A survey of AFL and CIO union leaders showed they generally regard current price declines as not enough to reduce their wage demands. A spokesman for the AFL meat cutters union in Chicago said, however, the commodity slump "undoubtedly will" affect them.

Senator Lucas (D-Ill) took the view that a protracted slump would cut national income and tax receipts. If the drop continued, he said, it might "eliminate all possibility" of income tax cuts this year.

But the housewife wasn't as interested in the reasons behind the slump as she was in its effects upon the prices at the corner grocery store.

Pork Chops Down

She learned just last night that pork chops are as low as 39 cents a pound in Minneapolis. Durkee famous foods division of the Glidden company announced a three-cents-a-pound cut to wholesalers in the price of margarine.

Shortening and starch were reduced in price yesterday. A chain store spokesman indicated last night additional cuts were in the offing.

The American meat institute at Chicago said wholesale hams were down as much as 14½ cents a pound from the January peak in many cities. Bacon, it said, has dropped from 51 to 39 cents a pound wholesale; loins for roasts and chops as much as 6½ cents, while sides of dressed beef were off 2½ to 6 cents a pound.

There was just a hint of a firming note among the markets as the week of price breaks ended.

Hogs were 50 cents to $2 a hundred pounds higher at the close of the Chicago livestock market yesterday. But lamb prices sagged and beef cattle were mixed. Wholesale meat and butter prices continued to slip.

Cotton Dips Heavily

Cotton at New Orleans, where the market was closed on account of the Mardi Gras on Tuesday, fell $9.90 to $13.10 a bale yesterday. But market observers considered at least part of the drop due to an adjustment with quotations at New York, where cotton ended $1.65 a bale lower to 50 cents higher.

Statistics showed market values dropped $3,000,000,000 on the

DAILY LENTEN MEDITATION

CHRIST in You, ✝ THE HOPE of Glory

"THE GLORY OF THE CROSS"

Galatians 6:14, "God forbid that I should glory save in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ."

THE WORLD in which we live is little different from the world Paul knew. One look in any direction and the outlook is dark. Suffering is everywhere. Humanity's hopes have vanished. There is starvation and death in most of the world. The cross of our Lord Jesus Christ is the most radiant thing amid the darkness. In a flower show in St. Louis several years ago the flower that won first prize was a new creation in carnations called "stardust." One invariably came back again and again to look upon these white carnations artistically draped on black velvet. They were radiantly lovely because of the background upon which they were placed. So is the cross of Christ. It is never so radiant as when we look upon it as it stands against the black background of our sinful and unrepentant world.

Our Heavenly Father, we thank Thee today for Christ and for the salvation that is promised us in His Name. Have mercy upon us, O God, and grant us grace to do the things we should. In Thy Blessed Name. Amen.

Prayer Day Service Planned By Church Women of County

Arrangements have been completed by the Marion County council of Church Women for the World Day of Prayer service which will be held Friday afternoon at Calvary Evangelical United Brethren Church. Mrs. Leo Keller, president, will be in charge, and women from various cooperating churches will take part. The service will open at 2 o'clock.

Scripture, prayer, litany, music and a message will be part of the program, and a candlelighting service will be held at the close. Mrs. J. B. Holloway will give the message, and representing the youth division of the Marion County Council of Churches will be Miss Virginia Howard and Guy Stoner Jr., who will present memorized Scripture passages. Mrs. Charles Feaver will be song leader and Mrs. J. W. Baker, organist, and Mrs. Willard Ginder will sing "The Lord's Prayer."

Malotte. Presentation of the six projects supported by the Council of Church Women, including educational work and work among migrant workers, will be presented in the candlelight service. Candles held by those representing each project will be illuminated from a central candle which will be a symbol of Christ, the central figure of Christianity.

Leaflets on which are printed a call to prayer for World Day of Prayer, together with its date and time of observance, and a "Daily Prayer for 1948" have been distributed by the Council of Church Women to City hospital, the Riffee rest home, Waddell Ladies' home and the Marion County home to be read at the hour of the service in Calvary church. Posters have been distributed to Marion places of business to be displayed as reminders of the day. At Calvary church during the time of the service nursery care will be provided for young children whose mothers wish to attend the service, it was announced.

Churches with representatives taking part in the program include St. Paul's Episcopal, Epworth, Prospect Street and Wesley Methodist, Calvary and First Evangelical United Brethren and the rural Salem Evangelical United Brethren church, Trinity Baptist, First and Salem Evangelical and Reformed, Central Christian, Forest Lawn Presbyterian, First Church of the Brethren and Park Street A.M.E.

FOREST LAWN GUILD MEETS

The Westminster Guild of Forest Lawn Presbyterian church was entertained Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. F. R. Martin on Hughes court. Devotions were conducted by Mrs. W. E. Walker. Miss Dorothy Lindsay reviewed a chapter of the study book, "Commended Unto Us," and Miss Virginia O'Dowd read an article from the "Outreach" magazine. The time was spent in hemming towels and articles for baby layettes. A contest award went to Mrs. Walker. Refreshments were served in keeping with the Valentine season by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Ernest Williamson.

MAN OPTIMISTIC ON ECONOMIC EXPANSION

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Feb. 12—A statistician serving the construction industry said yesterday the country is headed toward "great economic expansion." This he said, "will mean larger construction volume than we ever had before."

Thomas S. Holden, president of the F. W. Dodge Corp., which makes construction reports, in a speech prepared for a Chicago Association of Commerce and Industry meeting, added:

"When I speak of economic expansion I mean something that goes measurably beyond a mere catching up with deferred demands; even that will probably take another couple of years."

"I do not share the fear held by some people that there must be a depression after deferred demands have been taken care of."

Holden said, however, that "a recession in business and construction activity this year, accompanying a stabilization of commodity prices and construction costs, could probably restore an adequate balance with only moderate declines in industrial production, construction contract volume and employment."

Farewell Party Honors Galion Superintendent

Special to The Star

GALION — Another in the series of farewell parties being held in honor of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Povenmire, was a dinner-party Monday night at Hotel Talbott. Guests included husbands and wives of present and past school board members who have served on the board of education during Povenmire's superintendency for the past six and one-half years. Mrs. Merle Weber was chairman of arrangements for the dinner and the program which followed.

Robert M. Corry, president of the board of education, introduced Dr. Clarence Adams, former board member, who commended Mr. Povenmire for his work as head of the Galion school system, and also for his service when he was principal of the Junior High school. Marion E. Shank recently hired by the board to fill the vacancy made by Mr. Povenmire's resignation, also addressed the group briefly.

Mr. Povenmire who leaves soon to assume the duties of principal of the Lakewood High school, commented on his wonderful experiences in Galion and the courtesies extended him by the Galion people.

In behalf of the members of the board of education, a brass lamp was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Povenmire, by Mr. Corry.

"Freedom Coin" Honors Slave Freed by Lincoln

This is the Booker T. Washington Commemorative Half Dollar.

The 139th anniversary of Lincoln's birthday is also being observed as "Freedom Day" to memorialize a Negro slave who was freed by Lincoln and became an "Apostle of Inter-racial Goodwill."

It has been dedicated as "Freedom Day" by the Booker T. Washington Birthplace Memorial, and will be marked by a special observance in Franklin county Virginia, where the great Negro educator and orator was born in a slave cabin.

The American Government will open a new post office at the site as "Booker Washington Birthplace, Va.," and throughout the country, "Freedom Coins"—the Booker T. Washington Memorial Half Dollar—will be distributed.

These coins were authorized by a special Act of Congress, and 5,000,000 of them are being issued by the U. S. Mint.

By authority of Congress, they are being made available to the American public at the premium value of One Dollar. The difference above the par value of 50 cents will be used to erect industrial training schools to benefit many of the 14,000,000 Negroes below high school and college scholastic levels.

The faith that Booker Washington held for his people lives today. It is symbolized by the silver coins bearing his likeness.

Your name and address, mailed with one dollar to the Booker T. Washington Birthplace, Virginia, will serve a great human cause and bring the Memorial Half Dollar speedily to you.

THEIR RECORD PARALLEL

By The United Press

KENDALLVILLE, Ind.— Eighteen months ago Robert Reade and Donald Shippy, both of this city, entered the army together. They were sent to the same basic training camp and then were assigned to the same engineering battalion in Japan. They both became sergeants. They were discharged together in California.

WALLACE CLUB PROGRAM SCHEDULED HERE TONIGHT

A Lincoln's birthday interracial program, sponsored by the Marion Wallace for President club, will be held at Central Labor Union hall, 132 East Church street, at 7:30 tonight. Mr. Bradford, speaker for the meeting, will talk on Negro history. Dr. Calvin S. Hall of Western Reserve university, chairman of the Ohio Committee for Wallace, also will be present.

KIRKPATRICK MEETING

At a meeting of the Kirkpatrick W.C.T.U. Friday, a tribute was paid to Frances Willard, founder of the Women's Christian Temperance union. The meeting was held in the home of Mrs. Nellie Likins, with Mrs. Eldon Beers as leader. Topic discussions were by Mrs. Beers, Mrs. William Weir and Mrs. Richard Brooks. A picture of Frances Willard was illuminated with lighted candles and the tribute was led by Mrs. Iva Beers and included reading of the life history, code of principles and important sayings of the temperance leader. Closing song and prayer was followed by serving tea and receiving an offering for the Frances Willard fund.

One [illegible] rates to use the loud [illegible] of pessimism, but it's [illegible] to report that China is [illegible] danger of collapse and [illegible] dismemberment. [illegible] we are talking about [illegible] country which houses a [illegible] of the globe's population [illegible] politically ranks as one of [illegible] five powers along with [illegible] Russia, Britain and [illegible]. She has reached such a [illegible] state economically, politically and militarily that she cannot save herself by her own resources alone. Only outside aid on a vast scale could turn the trick. Having said that you naturally think of Uncle Sam—and wonder.

China has just entered its lunar New Year ("the Year of the Rat") and this normally calls for national celebration. However, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's government banned such observance because of the country's plight. Chiang told his lieutenants at a dinner that "this year will be better than the last," but apparently he was wise enough to let this non-committal remark lie where it fell.

The cold fact is the country's economy has been blown to smithereens. It's so bad that the experts can't give an intelligible estimate of the disaster. People continue to die of starvation. The inflation is as crazy as the Mad Hatter.

This frightful economic disruption is in part a reflection of the political mess. Chiang has to struggle with powerful forces which make it impossible to establish an efficient government. War lords and other vested interests continue to put self before country, with disastrous results.

SMALL WONDER THAT the Chinese Communist rebels have been making a field day of this politico-economic collapse which inevitably has crippled Chiang's military efforts to crush the rebellion. The position of the government as regards Manchuria is close to desperate, and to me that connotes near hopelessness. The Chinese Communists are in control of that great and rich country, and we can at least say that it will be a military marvel if Chiang can regain it.

Worse yet, there is a heavy exodus from cities which are threatened by the Communists in northern China. In fact, the government's position north of the Yangtse river through central China is bad generally.

If the Chinese Communists are able to consolidate their hold on Manchuria, what have you? Well, obviously you have a separate state, for one thing. But that's far from being the whole story.

CHIANG'S GOVERNMENT has charged that Russia has been giving the Chinese Reds material help in their rebellion. Of course that charge had to be proved, but if it is true (and neutral observers generally accept it) Manchuria would become another satellite of Moscow. This would multiply the already vast influence of the Soviet Union in the Far East so that she might be the dominant power in that part of the world.

Recognition of China's great need is seen in the U. S. state department's request to the senate foreign relations committee for an increase in the fund for Chinese aid. The new estimate is for $570,000,000.

Naturally $570,000,000 more won't save China. As a matter of fact, the problem is so vast that nobody knows whether it can be solved by money. Some close observers point out that China has had great experience with adversity, and say that on this basis her position isn't hopeless. Be that as may, Chiang's salvation depends in major degree upon herself.

"Fun Night" Program Scheduled by P.-T.A.

A meeting was held by George [illegible] school P.-T.A. Tuesday [illegible] in the assembly room [illegible] the school building. Devotions were given by Mrs. Robert Byrd, and a talk by Lester L. Dickey, superintendent of city schools.

A contribution of $5 was voted to the Red Cross. Plans were made to hold a "fun night" Feb. [illegible] with receipts of the event going toward securing playground equipment for the school.

Abraham Lincoln

IT IS 83 years since Lincoln died. Our 16th president has been the subject of more books and research than any other American. Novels, short stories, biographies, plays, music and poetry have been written about him. He is better known the world over than any other American. His bequest to posterity is not America's alone but the world's.

For Lincoln was a spokesman for the dignity of man, and so striking were his words and deeds that they are treasured wherever there are free men.

Lincoln's ideals are being roughly handled in many parts of the world today. Men still are held in bondage, to governments, if not to individuals. The tyrant's hand still wields the knout. Today there are rebellious world states, just as in Lincoln's time there were rebellious federal states.

If there were a Lincoln on the scene today, he could show the world the folly of petty squabbles and overcome the base emotions that threaten to destroy what little security we have left.

Such a man was Lincoln—a man as humble as a rural rail-splitter, yet a man with the power to lead and inspire millions, with never a thought of self-aggrandizement.

Taft and CIO Agree on This

THE test case in which the CIO and its president, Philip Murray, have sought indictment for violating the Taft-Hartley act's political expenditure ban may clear up the law's exact meaning on a controversial point.

Senator Taft wants it to be cleared up too. In a speech at Gary, Ind., during his current speaking tour, he said that the same section being tested by the CIO needs "clarification." This is the part of the law (section 316) which makes it unlawful for either corporations or labor organizations to spend money in connection with an election to federal office. Every officer of a labor organization who consents to a contribution in violation of the law is subject to a fine and imprisonment.

The point the CIO and Senator Taft agree is in need of clarification is whether or not this bars union organizations from carrying on what they contend are freedoms guaranteed by the Constitution, such as freedom of speech and freedom of press. When the co-author of the law and one of its most active critics agree that a particular section needs clarification, it probably does.

About Those Dismantled Plants

SECRETARY MARSHALL has explained to Senator Vandenberg why the United States is continuing to dismantle German plants as called for in the Potsdam agreement of 1945. While conceding that Russia has failed to live up to her part of the agreement, Mr. Marshall said it would be unwise to abandon our policy "merely by reason of Soviet malfeasance."

Unlike Russia, which can arrive at unilateral decisions on German policy, the United States must deal with France, Britain and other nations which are the beneficiaries of German reparations. These nations are eager for German war spoils, and rather than pay them out of current productions, Mr. Marshall believes the reparations question should be settled as quickly as possible by sending German equipment.

This is a logical explanation of a facet of foreign policy that has come in for severe criticism in congress. But it will not satisfy some congressmen and their constituents who learn, for example, of German soap plants being dismantled as prizes of war while the Germans must rely on soap shipments from the United States.

THE Communist big wheels being detained for deportation aren't out of the country yet. In addition to a desire to deport them, the United States must have a country willing to receive them, and that may not be so simple.

Those being detained are trouble-makers, organizers of "spontaneous demonstrations" and experts at throwing down the party line from a soap box. Countries outside the Russian orbit won't welcome them; countries inside it will want them to stay here as promulgators of the Communist creed. Only those ticketed for occupied Germany are fairly certain to get a one-way boat ride. Attorney General Clark will have to use all his Texas eloquence to get the others off his hands.

Did You Know

In order to reproduce the amount of energy which reaches the earth from the sun, it would be necessary to burn about 100,000,000 tons of soft coal a minute.

Scanning the Record

By George E. Sokolsky

Former Ambassador Pictures Defeat in Poland.

AMBASSADOR ARTHUR BLISS LANE has contributed mightily to the American people by publishing "I Saw Poland Betrayed." It is a report to his fellow countrymen on his mission to Poland between 1944 and 1947.

I wonder whether the title should not be "I Saw America Betrayed" for when the officials of a country forsake its honor and lower its dignity for immediate expediency, do they not disclose that its spirit has been fouled, its national morality abandoned?

The tale really begins at Teheran when Great Britain, which went to war with Germany over Poland, abandoned principle upon demand of Stalin and at the instigation of Roosevelt. Lane says:

SOKOLSKY

"The discussions at the conference at Teheran in December, 1943, among Roosevelt, Stalin and Churchill remained an official secret even within the department of state. The truth of what happened at this momentous conference was probably not known, except perhaps to two or three. Some key officials, indeed, who had the responsibility of making important recommendation on matters dealing with the United Nations organization, in conversations with me shortly after President Roosevelt's death in April, 1945, deplored the fact that no records on the Teheran meeting were available even to them, perhaps none had been made ..."

Relates Roosevelt Deceptions

For page after page, following this quotation, Lane records the deceptions pursued by President Roosevelt. He recounts in detail the relations between the President and Charles Rozmarek, president of the Polish-American congress. Rozmarek wrote to Lane:

President Roosevelt in his talk with me expressed distrust of Stalin, having been fooled by him, as he stated, on a number of occasions. He plainly indicated that he was fearful that Stalin might again collaborate with Hitler as he did in the initial stages of the war and the President wanted at all costs to prevent such an alliance. He kept on repeating to me 'Let us win the war with Germany first.' The President let it be understood that once Hitler was defeated, he would know how to handle Stalin."

Stalin actually got a better deal in Poland from Roosevelt and Churchill than he got out of Hitler by the Stalin-Hitler alliance. Apparently Roosevelt was so sure that he could out-fox Stalin after the war that he complacently permitted Stalin to out-fox him while the war was on.

Lane went to Poland as our ambassador after the peace and after we had recognized that country's puppet government. Our mission to Poland was treated cavalierly. It was improperly and even humiliatingly housed. Its diplomatic telegrams to its own government were delayed or not sent at all. Members of the mission and other Americans were arrested. The Russians established the fact in the minds of the Polish people that the United States did not count.

American Action

Did we do anything about it? Of course! Ambassador Lane reports.

"Over my personal protest, Director General Herbert H. Lehman had appointed as director of the first UNRRA mission to Poland the Soviet member of the UNRRA council, Mr. Menshikov ... It was no surprise to me when in August the agreement concluded in Warsaw provided that the Polish government, and not UNRRA, should have complete jurisdiction over the distribution of UNRRA supplies in Poland."

Also, we granted a $90,000,000 loan to the Polish government. Lane telegraphed the state department:

"With the greatest earnestness of which I am capable I beg the department not to approve the extension of any credits at this time. When the terroristic activities of the security police come to an end, when freedom of the press is restored, and when American citizens are released from Polish prisons—not until then should United States funds be used to assist the Polish provisional government of national unity."

He ends his chapter:

"In my opinion, these minor gains in no way compensated for the loss of prestige suffered by the United States when we granted credits to a government which had not kept its word to us and which seized on our leniency as warrant for proceeding to even greater attacks on the freedom of its own citizens—and of our citizens."

The book should be read by every American in humility and shame.

A Fine Welcome Mat for Your Mother-in-Law

Among other surplus items for which the war assets administration is currently seeking a purchaser are several used obstacle courses.

These are handy items to place in front of one's house and thereby discourage peddlers.

Obstacle courses? Obstacle courses are what every GI who went through basic training is convinced that hell will be filled with.

Obstacle courses go Winston Churchill one better. . . . They offer blood, sweat, tears and profanity.

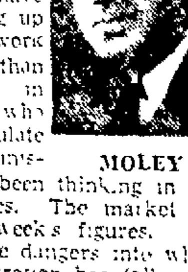

Incidentally, there is no truth in the report that the obstacle course was invented by the same man who designed the income tax blank.

If it can't find any other customers, the WAA might try the state department. Daily workouts on an obstacle course would be splendid training for our good will ambassadors to Russia.

Reason for the Decline

By Raymond Moley

ONCE more, the massive fecundity of Mother Earth has routed the pretensions of short-sighted men. Proposals for price control, which were plausibly offered as indispensable a few weeks ago, are now mere embarrassments to those who suggested them. Natural law, once derided by President Roosevelt as a cure for economic troubles, seems to be working once more. And when natural law operates, it uses an axe.

MOLEY

It is not difficult to see why wise people have been selling grain. They have been keeping up their home work far better than the people in Washington who want to regulate us. The administration has been thinking in last year's figures. The market has noted last week's figures.

One of the dangers into which the administration has fallen has been too great reliance upon the figures of the International Emergency Food Council. Throughout 1946 and 1947, this body presented most formidable estimates of world export requirements and exceedingly pessimistic estimates of grains available for export. Repeatedly, these estimates have been proved to be too gloomy. As long ago as the spring of 1946, Herbert Hoover, after his trip around the world, [illegible] the estimated requirements by two-thirds.

In October, the IEFC figured world requirements at 50,000,000 tons and the exports available at 29,000,000 tons for the fiscal year July 1, 1947 to June 30, 1948. The President's cabinet committee for world food programs accepted the figure of available exports at 29,000,000 tons, but scaled down requirements to 33,500,000 tons. That estimated gap of 4,500,000 tons has had a lot to do with skyrocketing prices.

Figures Doubtful

Figures made available to this column at that time by Dr. Julius Hirsch and Edith Hirsch made these official figures very doubtful. Accordingly, three months ago this column expressed disagreement about the estimated "gap." Four weeks ago, it expressed doubt again and concluded that "a fair interpretation of available facts throws a rather favorable light on the prospects of natural checks on inflation in 1948. For food is the heart of the problem."

These facts are now apparent to the market and seem to be dimly appearing to the administration. And the cream of the jest is that most of the figures now appearing come from the grab-bag of government statistics.

Gap Disappears

The so-called "gap" of 4,500,000 tons has apparently disappeared on the basis of developments over the past two months. The figures showing this are available to all. They appear in "Foreign Crops and Markets," a publication of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, and in Broomhall's "Corn Trade News," a very reliable British publication. They show that when increases in the grains available for export from all countries except the United States and Canada are summed up, the total is 33,825,000 tons, instead of the 29,000,000 tons predicted by the Administration last fall. This figure also does not take account of the possibility of better crops next year.

The political and economic implications of this newly-discovered situation are very important. They will require political parties and business organizations drastically to reshape their plans.

Propaganda Backfires

By Walter Lippmann

SPEAKING recently about attempts to play politics with history, and to put upon the Conservative party the "terrible load of responsibility for the muddle which led to the war," Mr. Churchill said that "It would be found better for all parties to leave the past to history." One might wish that the Department of State had had the wisdom to do just that, instead of publishing the Nazi documents on Nazi-Soviet relations for the period from April, 1939, to Jan. 21, 1941.

For this publication is a classic example of bad propaganda. It was propaganda in that some of the truth, but not the whole of it, was used for political purposes. It was bad propaganda because it was bound to backfire, doing more injury to ourselves and to our friends than to the Russians against whom it was aimed. That the Kremlin would see this, and take full advantage of it, was to be expected and could easily have been anticipated.

LIPPMANN

That the State department book was the work of propagandists and not of scholars is self-evident on the face of it. It contains only Nazi documents, and no self-respecting historian would dream of basing his judgment on the documents of only one side of a great historical event.

Moreover, only those Nazi documents were selected for publication which bore on Nazi-Soviet relations after April, 1939. That was after the Ethiopian war, after seizure of Austria, and after the Munich settlement in which Czechoslovakia was dismembered.

The publication of all the documents—not only Nazi but Soviet, British, French, Italian and American covering the events between the two world wars—will probably not be undertaken in this generation. When all the documents are published, it is safe to say that no one will emerge triumphant and pure but that all, in varying degrees, will have their load, as Mr. Churchill said, of responsibility "for the muddle that led to the war."

Verdict Must Wait

The verdict of history, if there is one verdict, will have to wait upon the opening of all the archives, at least of those which remain. For the present the publication of some, but not all, the documents can lead only to the publication of some more, but still not all, the documents.

This is now going to happen. The Kremlin, which has been embarrassed by the tale of its dealings with Hitler, will now reply with a selection of documents calculated to embarrass all those who also dealt with Hitler.

The result will not be edifying. Out of the fracas of the propagandists will come not truth but the discrediting of the search for truth, and an impairment of confidence in the objectivity of the intellectual disinterestedness of American official documents.

For those who may think that the end justifies the means in the cold war with so formidable and so unscrupulous an antagonist as Soviet Russia, it should be sufficient to point out what a very bad piece of propaganda this publication is.

What do these documents show? That Soviet Russia and Nazi Germany partitioned eastern Europe just before Hitler attacked Poland and the war with Britain and France began. They show furthermore that when Hitler had defeated Britain, he made the colossal mistake of attacking Russia.

Lesson for Germans

Now, in this country the main attention has been fixed upon the fact that Hitler and Stalin made their deal. But that is not news to Europeans. For them, and more particularly for the Germans, the main effect of these documents is to demonstrate how little ideological differences count when great states are promoting and defending what they regard as their vital interest.

For the Germans the lesson which these documents teach is only too appallingly clear. It is that they lost the war which they had all but won because Hitler made the mistake of breaking his agreement with Russia.

That is the way these documents will be interpreted by German Nationalists, and exploited by Soviet agents, in the German underground. The State department propagandists may have thought they were demonstrating the perfidy of the Kremlin. But to the Germans they have now provided documentary evidence to prove that Germany would today be master of continental Europe if only Hitler had kept, instead of breaking off, the alliance with Russia.

The Once Over

Our Own Book Reviews. No. 2

"The Information Please Almanac for 1948" or "Forever Glergaard" (also sold in some stores as "Inside John Kieran"). Here is a book obviously of the year that while not flashing with action, ... swiftly enough through 900 pages and leaves the reader with a sense of having covered immense territory, encountering innumerable celebrities and visiting many strange places. It is no longer than "Forever Amber," but the movie possibilities are not so great.

PHILLIPS

Early in its pages you meet such personalities as Dewey, Eisenhower, Taft, Marshall, Stassen and Leverett Saltonstall. The story opens with the political conventions and then cuts back abruptly to George Washington and his birth in Westmoreland County in 1732. It takes us through the days of Adams and Jefferson up to the era of Coolidge, Harding and on to the period of the Lamar, Kansas known as "Smiling Harry" Truman. There is a sharp change of pace as we encounter the Constitution of the United States, the Bill of Rights and some of the highest mountains in the United States.

The action slows considerably as the reader is taken through tables of life expectancy, rates of population and methods of execution. The latter does not mention appearance on the Information Please program when unprepared). Arrests for sex in all the states of the union are treated in a bold manner, as are the elevations of numerous mountain ranges. The reader at this point perhaps finds himself a little perplexed as to the ultimate goal of the authors and wonders what will be the final outcome until suddenly there is a light mood which carries him to Room 404, 1500 Locust Street, Philadelphia, and ... this is the address of Phi Kappa Sigma. Here is nerve-tingling suspense, but nothing happens at the address and it is somewhat exasperating to find oneself whisked under a table only to find another table revealing that there are 117,9.. barbershops in this country as against 201 livery stables, 363 taxidermy shops and only 1,81. places where a guy can rent a canoe.

Here the reader, somewhat mixed up, asks himself "Whither bound?" and "Will the girl be saved in the end, and, if so, in the barbershop or by a taxidermist?" He is not to find out immediately, as the scene shifts to the Temple of Diana at Ephesus, Lake Superior, Mt. Rainier and the tide tables.

There is a feeling at this point that plot and character have been neglected, but this is dissipated as the author, Mr. Kieran, takes us to all the Olympic games of history, through all the worlds series games and ultimately to a meeting with Jim Figg, who won the first bare knuckle championship of the world in 1790. Figg does not hold us as he should, but our interest is recaptured as we meet John L. Sullivan as he belts the tar out of Jake Kilrain in 75 rounds back when men were men in 1889. There's drama in the discovery that Sullivan fought 75 rounds for $10,000.

The story closes with a chapter ending the real mystery which runs through the story: who won the snowshoe derby in 1947? The author does not mince words. He points to Lloyd Evans of St. Hyacinthe, Quebec. Everybody lives happily ever after.

THE Kux Kux Klanners are now making war on a football coach. They want him to mask his plays, no doubt. And possibly play night games without lights.

An American housewife has won one of the Olympics ski contests at St. Moritz. How the women get around these days, and the things they do! Still, it must be more fun than doing the dishes.

Fritz Kuhn, famous Bund leader in the pre-war days, has escaped from a detention camp in Germany. What of it? The one thing the fellow is wholly incapable of is improving his position.

A new half dollar is being minted. It will have a head of Benjamin Franklin on one side and the Liberty Bell on the other. But it will go so fast nobody will notice them. Our suggestion for decorations on the fast moving money of today would be a head of Barney Oldfield on one side and a rocket on the other.

It has been so cold in Miami that the natives are accusing the damyankees of stealing the Gulf Stream.

Rustlings of Spring

By TRUMAN TWILL

Take heart, ye who are weary of winter. Be of good cheer. Spring is not far behind.

In Cedar Rapids, Ia., a woman who was obviously in normal health for this time of year snarled at her husband three days ago, "Look, Lamebrain, you're going to the cellar tonight and fix that rickety stepladder if it's the last thing you do, because one of these days I'll be wanting you to start cleaning wallpaper and I don't want you laid up in bed with a broken arm during housecleaning season."

In Roanoke, Va., a man was overhead speaking as follows to another man at lunch: "This is the lull before the storm, Charley. My wife hasn't opened her mouth yet. She's not saying a word, but that's the trouble. She is brooding. One of these days she will go berserk and you know what that means—housecleaning."

In Racine, Wis., an easy-going town, an enterprising grocer jumped the gun a few days ago with a display of cleaning compounds, sponges, wallpaper cleaner and window-cleaning compounds. A sign over the display leered at potential customers—"It won't be long now, will it?"

A couple in Muncie, Ind., married 25 years next August, spent a quiet evening at home recently arguing about whether to start the round of household rehabilitation now or wait until the end of March. He contended they might as well wait. She was in favor of starting and working toward a climax at the end of April. She won.

A man in Van Wert, O., remembering trials of previous years, sneaked off quietly Sunday, mixed up a batch of detergent, began to wash the bathroom walls of his nest without being urged. "I figured if I'd jump the gun," he explained to incredulous friends the next Monday morning, "she'd be at a disadvantage when it's time for the cleanup I'd be able to say, "Whatcha cracking about, girlie? Ain't I already done my share?"

A fellow at Annapolis attracted attention one sunny day recently by parking the family automobile in a sunny spot and scouring vigorously on the dull finish with a cleaning mixture. He explained he couldn't wait any longer to get started. "I guess I'm as bad as a woman," he said sheepishly. "When things get to a certain point I want to clean them up."

A woman in Scranton, Pa., summed it up this: "Housecleaning? I can hardly wait. My gosh how I dread it! I really do. It's nonsense to say women like to clean house. All they like to do is get it over with. That's the reason they want to jump the gun. If they didn't get started early they'd never get finished. Even as it is they're lucky to get finished in time to start mowing the grass and doing the outside chores."

As the Racine grocer says, "It won't be long now, will it?"

INSTALLMENT XVI

AT 10:30 o'clock on the night of May 9, 1940, the telephone rang in my apartment, and the excited voice of Ambassador Cudahy in Brussels informed me that heavy German air forces were over Luxembourg and flying into Belgium and were reported over the Netherlands. Cudahy informed us of large concentrations of German forces on the frontiers of Belgium, Luxembourg and the Netherlands, and of Belgium's expectation that the Germans would attack probably at dawn.

I telephoned the President, informed him of Cudahy's message, then telephoned some of my department associates, and went to my office, arriving there soon after 11 o'clock, a little in advance of the others. I immediately put in a number of telephone calls to key European capitals. When I reached Cudahy, he informed me that Luxembourg had been invaded, that German planes were bombing the airport near Brussels, and that the Germans seemed to be attacking Belgium, Holland, and Luxembourg simultaneously.

But even more catastrophic than the subsequent news of German success in the Low Countries were the cables Ambassador Bullitt sent the President and me on May 15. The Germans, advancing with overwhelming forces of tanks and dive bombers, had broken through the French Army at Sedan. Premier Reynaud had telephoned to Prime Minister Churchill and said that, since the Germans had broken through, the war might be lost in the course of a few days. In Reynaud's opinion, it would be lost unless Britain sent her fighter plane strength from the United Kingdom to France at once. Churchill promised to recommend this to the war cabinet, insisting to Reynaud, however, that there was no chance of the war being lost. Reynaud replied that Churchill knew that as long as he, Reynaud, remained premier, France would fight to the bitter end.

ON THE SAME DAY, May 15, Ambassador Kennedy cabled to the President and me a striking conversation he had just had with Churchill. The prime minister said he was sending the President a message on the next day that, if Italy entered the war, he considered slight the chances of the Allies winning. Churchill said the French were asking for more troops but he was unwilling to send men from England at that time because he was convinced that within a month England would be vigorously attacked. Churchill added he intended to ask for a loan of 30 or 40 of our old destroyers, and also whatever planes we could spare.

Of one point the President and I had not the slightest doubt, namely that an Allied victory was essential to the security of the United States.

Hastily surveying the field, the President decided to scrape together every available warplane to ship to France. Bullitt cabled me on May 14 suggesting France be permitted to send an aircraft carrier to pick them up. After talking to the President, I replied the following day that it would be impossible to load the planes at New York because of the provisions of international law and American statutes, but they could be flown to a port on the east coast of Canada, possibly Halifax, and loaded there. This was done—but too late for them to get to France.

PAUL REYNAUD

French premier made frantic appeals but he "asked the impossible"

IT WAS ALSO EVIDENT to the President and me that the enormous superiority of the German army revealed by the lightning occupation of Holland and the breakthrough at Sedan required the revising of all our estimates for the rearming of the United States. The President discussed with me the project of sending a special message to congress requesting a virtual doubling of the military appropriations for the year, in which I fully concurred. Bullitt had sent me a cable for the President on May 13 stressing the importance of increasing our production of planes, because of the vital part planes were playing in the German advance. I thereupon suggested to the President that he tell congress that the United States should aim for a production of 50,000 planes a year. I had already mentioned this figure to my associates. The reaction of Mr. Roosevelt was the same as that of my associates — he was literally speechless, for 50,000 planes was ten times our current annual production.

I argued, however, that it was best to aim at a high figure and take the long view. Such a production did not seem so impossible to me as it seemed to others. I felt that the mere mention of the figure, with our tremendous productive capacities known to the world, would have a good effect in stimulating our own people, in comforting the Allies and in giving cause for worry to the Axis.

THE PRESIDENT FORTHWITH AGREED. In his message to congress on May 16 he said he would like to see the nation geared to a production of 50,000 planes a year. He asked for additional appropriations for all branches of the armed forces totaling $1,182,000,000.

Now began a series of extraordinary, almost hysterical appeals to the President from Premier Reynaud. The French premier was understandably alarmed and excited over the terrific German victories. But he asked the impossible.

Alexis Leger, secretary general of the French foreign office, informed Ambassador Bullitt on May 16 that Reynaud intended that evening to send a personal appeal to the President asking if it might be possible for Mr. Roosevelt to obtain from congress a declaration of war against Germany. Bullitt cabled the President and me that he replied to Leger that such an appeal would be worse than useless, that the President would not ask congress to declare war on Germany, and that congress would vote almost unanimously against a declaration of war. Bullitt pointed out bluntly to Leger that if Reynaud made such an appeal it would be purely for the record; Reynaud wished some day to be able to show he had appealed to the President of the United States and the President had rejected his appeal. Bullit commented to Leger that this seemed to him to be cheap and that the moment was too serious, not only for France and England but also for the United States, to have anything but frank dealing among the three governments.

The President and I agreed that Bullit's response to Leger echoed our own reaction.

That evening Bullitt saw Reynaud himself, who said he had thought of sending us a formal note.

BULLITT GAVE US his opinion that Reynaud had not thought the matter out and had decided to send a note for the record, a decision which was forestalled by Bullitt's conversation with Leger that afternoon.

After the President and I discussed Reynaud's conversation with Bullitt, the President talked to Bullitt on the telephone and informed him that anything of this nature was out of the question. Bullitt so informed Reynaud.

But on May 22 Bullitt cabled the President and me again to say that Reynaud told him he could not leave the matter in suspense. It was now more vitally important than when he last discussed it four days before. France had received information from both Italy and Sweden that, if the Germans should gain a spectacular victory in the present battle in northern France, Hitler intended to offer France a separate and generous peace.

Reynaud said that, if Hitler made such a proposal at a moment of great discouragement in France, there was an enormous danger that the French public would be disposed to accept. Reynaud himself admitted that such acceptance would be as suicidal as Czechoslovakia's giving up the Sudetenland in 1938. From that moment on, France would live under the heel of Germany and, as soon as Hitler found it convenient, he would occupy all of France just as he had occupied all of Czechoslovakia. Also, a German victory over England would follow in a few weeks. Reynaud then believed that in a matter of months German soldiers and thousands of planes would be in South America, the Panama Canal would be destroyed by air bombardment, and the American army would be able to offer little resistance.

AID SHORT OF WAR from the United States he considered inadequate to save France and Britain. If we did not give military support now going beyond that short of war, we would have to face the Germans in the United States.

The military situation in France was now rapidly deteriorating. With France apparently falling I held a series of conferences in my office with my associates, and asked them to consider the various possible eventualities of the war situation in Europe, with particular reference to their efforts on the United States and the Western Hemisphere. We came to the general conclusion that the position of the Allied armies was desperate, and our attention centered on the necessity for preserving the British and French fleets in being and out of Hitler's hands.

The President agreed that we should make a direct appeal to the British and French governments on the subject of their navies. We accordingly drafted telegrams which I sent out on May 26. In the one to Bullitt I said the President desired him to say at once to Reynaud and Daladier that, while we still hoped the invasion would be checked, nevertheless, if worse came to worst, we considered retention of the French fleet as being vital to the reconstitution of France and her colonies and to control of the oceans and as a vital influence in getting less harsh peace terms.

OUR MESSAGE to the British government conveyed the same thought with regard to the British fleet. On May 20 Churchill had sent the President a message emphasizing the dangers facing Britain and indicating that, if the United Kingdom were conquered by Hitler, the sole remaining bargaining counter with Germany would be the fleet. The President now took up this last thought in his message to the prime minister. He suggested to Churchill that, if worse came to worst, the British fleet could retire to Canada, and assured him that the United States would not permit Germany or any other non-American power to seize Canada or other British Western Hemisphere possessions. Germany could not win the war except as concerned military operations within Europe, so long as the British and French fleets remained intact.

Reynaud's appeals now became yet more frantic. Bullitt cabled us on May 28 that Reynaud suggested that the president of the French Republic and the king of England address a joint appeal to President Roosevelt. Reynaud had written out one sentence of the appeal when Bullitt saw him. It read: "The armies fighting to preserve the liberties of the world have been stabbed in the back."

REYNAUD SAID HE KNEW perfectly well that we could not fly an army to France in planes that did not exist, even if we were to declare war on Germany tomorrow. But there was our fleet. The Atlantic fleet should be sent at once to the Mediterranean. This act might at least prevent another stab in the back, this time from Mussolini.

As Britain completed the evacuation from Dunkirk, she now made it clear to France that she would send no more planes to the Continent. The British ambassador in Paris explained to Bullitt that the rate of destruction of planes in battle was so great that if Britain sent over her remaining planes, none would be left in two weeks. Since there was no longer any hope of saving Paris or even the French army, it seemed wiser to keep the planes in England for the forthcoming Battle of Britain.

In response to Reynaud's almost pitiful pleas for backing, the President urged Churchill to send planes to France, but the prime minister refused. Bullitt, outraged by this decision, communicated to the President and me on June 5 his fear that the British might be conserving their air force and fleet so as to use them as bargaining points in negotiations with Hitler.

THE PRESIDENT AND I, however, thought differently. We knew that France was finished, but we were convinced that Britain, under the indomitable leadership of Churchill, intended to fight on.

The thought of terms with Germany now began to dominate the French cabinet. Dispatches from Bullitt reflected ever more the likelihood that a French surrender was only a matter of The Germans were driving ward Paris. On June 1 French government left the for Tours.

And on that day Mussolin declared war on France and Br

ERIE'S CROSSING CASUALTIES DROP

27 Per Cent Decrease Recorded in 1947.

Special to The Star

CLEVELAND, Feb. 12—The total casualties at railroad grade crossings along the Erie railroad decreased 27 per cent in 1947 and fatal accidents decreased 14 per cent, according to H. D. Barber, operating vice president. A total of 18 persons were killed and 52 injured in 1946.

There was an increase in total accidents, however, with 196 occurring in 1947 as against 153 in 1946. Of these accidents, 110, or 56 per cent, happened at protected crossings where there are flasher lights, wig-wags, crossing bells, gates or watchmen.

During the year 57 accidents were caused by vehicles colliding with the side of a train, 58 by vehicles stalling on tracks ahead of trains, 11 accidents resulted by vehicles stalling on tracks ahead watchmen's signal and 3 where automobiles ran through lowered gates.

Accidents at grade crossings increased in New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio, and decreased in Indiana. Illinois matched her 1946 record with no accidents for 1946.

Virtually all grade crossing accidents were due to gross negligence on the part of the highway traveler, according to Mr. Barber's report. "Without their full cooperation," he said, "The constant safety measures taken by the railroad are useless."

Say Bucyrus Underpass Will Cost $800,000

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS—A movement to promote an underpass at the Pennsylvania railroad crossing on West Mansfield street on route 30N here gained momentum today as a group of Bucyrus promoters, city and county officials met with state engineers to determine how the project, estimated to cost $800,000, might be financed.

Among those present for the conference were Rep. Terry Drake, J. J. Heir, railroad crossing engineer; D. O. Stone assistant railroad crossing engineer D. E. Starkey, location and design engineer and J. A. Atkinson, construction engineer from the state highway department.

Bucyrus city would be required to meet 25 per cent of the cost of the project, according to the proposed plan.

The crossing has been the scene of numerous traffic accidents, several of which were fatal, during the last year.

Crestline's Bibich Gets Bond and Hollywood Trip

Special to The Star

CRESTLINE, Feb. 12—An extra special "orchid" in the form of a $1,000 bond and a trip to Hollywood goes to Michael Bibich of Crestline, "outstanding neighbor of the year," according to an announcement made yesterday by the Tom Breneman show, nationally broadcast radio program. Last fall Mr. Bibich was awarded an "orchid" on one of the Tom Breneman daily shows, having been nominated for the "good neighbor" honor by Crestline residents. The recommendation was made because of his donation of a number of lots for veteran housing in Crestline. During World War II, he was active in promoting the work of the G.I. service center here. Annually, the "outstanding neighbor" is chosen by a group of radio editors, it was stated. Mr. and Mrs. Bibich will leave Monday on the five-day trip to Hollywood and expect to arrive Wednesday. On Thursday Mr. Bibich will be interviewed as a guest of the Tom Breneman show.

INDIAN LAKE KILLER'S EXECUTION STAYED

By International News Service

LIMA, O., Feb. 12—Roger "Tug" Williams, 31-year-old Indian Lake ..., had an indefinite stay today of his sentence to die in the electric chair at Ohio penitentiary.

Williams was convicted in Logan county common pleas court at Bellefontaine, entered to die for the fatal shooting last May 28 of his former housekeeper, Mrs. Wenо Rotbach, 35, of Kenton. The shooting occurred in an Indian Lake resort restaurant.

The stay of execution was automatic with Williams' appeal of his conviction to the third district appellate court. Williams had been sentenced to die in the electric chair March 1.

The appellate court gave the state until March 13 to file its answer to the plea entered by Williams.

WINTER DEALS NEW FOUR-WAY PUNCH

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Feb. 12 — Winter dealt a four-way punch of cold, snow, sleet and rain over a wide section of the country today—from the Rockies to the eastern seaboard.

The worst of the batch of bad weather hit the Kansas-Oklahoma-Texas Panhandle, sections of the mountain states and the gulf region. The north central area got more sub-zero blasts—but a promise of moderating temperatures.

Freezing rain and snow was reported over sections of the eastern states but the cold wave in the New England region appeared ended.

A huge mass of snow toppled three railroad coaches from 75 to at least 300 feet down a mountain canyon near the Colorado-New Mexico border yesterday.

and a Hollywood screen role, the new Mrs. Sears went to Paris with her diplomat husband. She left him in Paris last Sept. 6 and obtained a divorce in Reno.

Eva then continued her role as a career girl as a secretary with the Socony-Vacuum Oil Co., in New York, where young Rockefeller is an official.

Changed Name Again

Last December her name was changed legally to Barbara.

Until two months ago she lived with a sister in an apartment on Third Ave., New York, right beside the "El."

Mrs. Richard Sears of Beacon Hill, mother of Barbara's former husband, told newsmen:

"I have reason to believe that Eva met Mr. Rockefeller on the west coast more than a year ago. She is a very nice girl and very pretty but she and my son did not get along.

"She apparently did not go back to the stage. I suppose the Rockefeller family would disapprove. Perhaps that's why she went to work for Socony-Vacuum for a while."

"I believe that Eva was born in Lowell, Iowa, a town not too far from Chicago and later came to that city. She is supposed to have attended Northwestern university for a while and about that time became interested in the theater.

"She was a good actress and in her short career had some fine parts. I think she was best in 'You Can't Take It With You.'"

New York Stock Exchange since the close on Feb. 3.

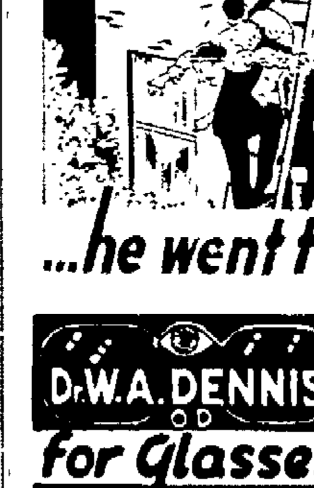

Stock prices on the average were the lowest since May 27. Grains ended the week well below Feb. 3 prices.

May wheat closed yesterday at $2.37 a bushel—49½ cents below the closing price on the last day before the break and 69½ cents under the $3.06½ peak reached Jan. 16.

May corn ended yesterday at $2.05¼—43⅝ cents less than the price at the windup of trading Feb 3 and 65⅛ cents below the Jan 16 high.

May oats were 98½ cents a bushel at yesterday's close—20¼ cents less than the final price the afternoon before the price break started and 31¼ cents below the crop high of $1.29¾ on Jan. 23.

A comparison of the middling spot cotton prices at New York told the story of that commodity. It was 35.31 cents a pound on the afternoon of Feb. 3 and last night had dropped 2.68 cents to 32.63.

Berry Pays $10,000 Tax Evasion Fine

By The United Press

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 12—Former U. S. Sen. George L. Berry, president of the International Pressmen's Union, paid a $10,000 fine resulting from a nolo contendere plea to a charge of 1939 income tax evasion, in federal court here yesterday.

Sentence of one year in prison was suspended by Federal Judge Elmer D. Davies Feb. 3, on the condition that Berry pay the fine within 10 days.

OHIO RIVER BOATMEN AWAIT ICE CRISIS

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Feb. 12—Ohio river men still had their fingers crossed today.

The civil engineers corps of U. S. Engineers said continued rain in the river valley sharply increased the threat of another major ice breakup.

The critical spot, the engineers said, is 27 miles upstream from Cincinnati where a mile-long ice jam is piled 10 to 15 feet high between Moscow and Neville, villages on the Ohio shore.

Should that mass of ice break loose, it would crash into another jam backed up in dam 35's pool at New Richmond, O. Both masses of ice then probably would sweep into the Cincinnati harbor, endangering $2,-500,000 worth of tied-up navigation, the engineer's spokesman said.

the Marshall plan for European recovery.

He already has said he wants a cut in the $6,800,000,000 starting cost proposed by President Truman.

He has called for the plan's management by a separate administrator with cabinet status. Both proposals seem likely to get favorable consideration of the senate foreign relations committee.

See No Retreat

On Stassen's home grounds, Taft is not expected to retreat from his stand for modification of the Marshall plan. Stassen has pointed out that the plan involves expenditures even less than he had proposed previously.

In this midwestern area, Taft's call for federal tax cuts has gained enthusiastic response.

The Ohioan discussed the Taft-Hartley labor law yesterday at Gary, stronghold of organized labor. He conceded, in connection with the federal indictment of CIO President Phil Murray, that some change in the act's ban on union activities may be needed.

Taft said he had no knowledge of the federal case against Murray and could not pass on it. But he said he thinks that any regular union newspapers, sent to members and a regular subscription list, should be allowed to print political opinion and advertisements.

The only ban he would place, he said, would be against the free, or throw-away, type of circulation of such papers to influence campaign results.

Declares Taft Among Greatest Americans

By The Associated Press

PORTSMOUTH, O, Feb. 12—Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio is "one of the greatest Americans of the day," says Sen. Owen Brewster of Maine.

"If nominated, he will be elected," Brewster told a Portsmouth Lincoln day dinner last night.

The Maine Republican styled the Ohio GOP's favorite son candidate for president as "a man who possesses great courage, leadership and honesty."

Ohio, Brewster said, "should support Senator Taft 100 per cent."

Tired, "All-In"—Listless Feeling Brought To Halt

As Vibrant Energy is Released To Every Muscle, Fibre, Cell

Do you get up in the mornings still tired, feel down-and-out all day? Have you checked-up on your blood strength lately? Overwork, undue worry, cold, flu or other illness often wears down the red-blood-cells.

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways, no appetite, underweight, no energy, a run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloat and give off that sour food taste.

Don't wait! Energize your body with rich, red-blood. Start on SSS Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow to your skin—firm flesh fill out hollow places. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle from your drug store. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

Injured Marengo Minister Recovers

Rev. S. M. Firestone of Marengo, seriously injured in an automobile accident in Chicago Dec. 16, is expected to return to his home this week. He was discharged from Wesley Memorial hospital, Chicago, Jan. 26, but decided to remain for a time in that city before attempting the trip home, it was learned. Mrs. Firestone was injured fatally in the accident which happened when the Firestones were enroute to meet a son from Appleton, Wis., and his family to bring them to Marengo for the holidays.

LABOR

ferences of opinion is "factionalism."

Factionalism has hindered an early start for the AFL's "Labor League for Political Education," a counterpart of the CIO's political action committee.

Top AFL officials failed, at their recent executive council meeting in Miami, to agree on a league director. There is more turmoil about this than appears on the surface.

Bill Hutcheson, head of the AFL carpenters and a lifelong Republican, has declined to go along with the others. There are reports that Dan Tobin, one of the staunchest Democrats among the AFL leaders, may make his own separate political plans, too.

Some Like Wallace

As for the CIO, a group of its unions representing about 1,250,-000 of the CIO's claimed 6,000,000 members have indicated they may support Henry Wallace's third party. Murray and the rest of the CIO have come out against a third party this year.

A third group of unions representing more than 1,000,000 rail workers formed another political league opposed to congressmen favoring the Taft-Hartley law. These plans haven't jelled, either.

Some CIO officials claim Murray's indictment will arouse sympathy among unionists and prompt them to greater political efforts.

Murray and the CIO were indicted for publishing in the union-financed CIO News an endorsement for a Democratic congressional candidate in Maryland. They claimed freedom of the press entitled them to do it.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) co-author of the labor law, told reporters the political spending ban should be eased. He said labor newspapers circulated to a regular subscription list should have the right to political comment.

But he said he opposes changing the law to allow use of union dues for printing "purely campaign papers."

PRICE DROP IN FARM PRODUCTS PREDICTED

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, Feb 12—A decrease in the prices of certain farm products was predicted by WLW farm editor Roy Battles of Cincinnati, speaking to more than 300 members of the Wyandot county Hog Improvement Association at their annual banquet meeting here Monday.

Increased production per farm worker and the possibility of decreased industrial employment were pointed out by Mr Battles as indications of an expected drop in farm prices. At present the nation is exporting 10 to 12 per cent of our farm produce and people here are consuming more food than ever before, he said.

"We know that it is going to be difficult to keep consumption at these high levels, and we know that our exports will not provide sufficient outlets in the future unless we become an import nation too."

Plans advanced for continued farm prosperity include the stamp plan to subsidize price on some foods for distribution to poor families, production controls, and the use of farm products in the manufacture of synthetics and other materials useful in forms other than food.

Mr. Battles closed with an endorsement of proposals to increase the consumption and all forms of use of American farm products and expressed his disapproval of any form of production limitation.

Other speakers were: F. T. Grimm and S. C. Cashman, associate agent and Wyandot county extension service agent; H. M. Barnes, swine specialist from Ohio State university; Henry Schilling, association president, and Superintendent of Schools Charles E. Davis of Upper Sandusky.

REDS CENSURE COMPOSERS

[illegible] Prokofieff In [illegible] List Accused of [illegible] "Decadent" Music.

[illegible] Associated Press

[illegible] 12—The cen[illegible] Communist [illegible] Russia [illegible] including [illegible] and Serge [illegible] page this [illegible] the forma- [illegible] against the [illegible] was sharply [illegible] of bourgeois [illegible] influence of [illegible] decadent music of [illegible] and America." [illegible] mentioned by [illegible] Khachaturian, [illegible] Gabriel Popov, [illegible] Vano Muradeli and N[illegible] Miaskovsky.

"The [illegible] formalist trend in Soviet music—a trend against the people—also is exerting a baleful influence on the training and upbringing of young composers in our conservatories and above all in Moscow Conservatory where the formalist trend is predominant," the resolution said.

"The works of many pupils of the conservatory is a blind imitation of the music of D. Shostakovich, S. Prokofieff and others."

Shebalin is director of the Moscow Conservatory.

Shostakovich is the composer of the opera "Lady Macbeth of Mtsensk" and several widely played symphonies, of which probably the best known is his seventh. Prokofieff perhaps is most widely known for his "Peter and the Wolf."

Khachaturian has written widely played violin and piano concertos and Miaskovsky is the composer of at least 27 symphonies, perhaps more than any other man now living. The works of Popov and Shebalin are not well known abroad.

The resolution was particularly critical of Muradeli's opera "Great Friendship," performed during celebrations of the 30th anniversary of the October revolution last year.

"The music of the opera [illegible] said, "is inexpressive and feeble. There is not one melody, not one aria, that can be memorized. The music is full of confusion and disharmony. It is built on sheer dissonance, on ear-splitting combinations."

The resolution accused the named composers of holding "a rotten theory according to which the people do not understand music."

Roving Reports

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK

DID you ever hear how Abraham Lincoln gave a gold watch to a native missionary for saving an American seaman from being eaten by South Sea cannibals?

He took time out from his Civil war duties 84 years ago this month to do this small act of kindness.

This little-known story is better remembered in Honolulu than in Washington. Wilmon Menard tells it in the current issue of "Natural History," magazine of the American Museum of Natural History.

The scene was the island of Hiva-oa in the Marquesas group below the Pacific equator. A Peruvian crew shelled this green paradise, landed, ravished the women and seized many native men for labor in the mines of Peru.

Hal Boyle

The Cannibal tribes swore to get revenge by putting on their bill of fare the next white sailors to land.

Later an American whaler hove to offshore. Hearing of the remarkable beauty of the Polynesian girls, First Mate Jonathan Whalon rowed in.

The merry cannibals locked their arms in his, told him the prize beauties lived further up the valley—away from the island's mission station.

Whalon—neither the first nor the last American wolf to fall for this bait—went along cheerfully. As soon as they were out of sight the cannibals trussed him up and threw him before a stone altar.

As the faggots were piled, word was spread around that the menu for the day would be good old "puaka enata," which can only be translated as "long-pig."

SOME VEGETARIANS on the island, however, ran to the native missionary, James Kekela, and snitched:

"A white man is about to be roasted."

Rev. Alexander Kaukau, Hawaiian associate of Kekela, meanwhile had got in touch with Mato, the cannibal chieftain, but failed to dissuade him from his program for solving the tourist problem.

Mato, whose son had been shanghaied by Spanish sailors, insisted:

"They are all one kind—the white men. I shall roast this white man."

Heedless of personal peril, Kekela dressed up in his Sunday best. Carrying only a bible, he and Rev. Kaukau went to the cannibal's outdoor kitchen. They arrived just in time. Under the angry gaze of the natives, Kekela boldly strode up to the terrified sailor, knelt, and prayed over him.

CHIEF MATO WAS overawed by Kekela's sabbath finery. But he refused to call off the barbecue until the missionary offered to give him his own boat and another friend promised him a gun.

Thus was spared Jonathan Whalon, the man who came for romance and almost stayed for dinner. When his ship returned to America, the story of his novel rescue reached President Lincoln.

Lincoln promptly sent $500 to the U.S. minister in Honolulu to buy gold watches for both Kekela and Rev. Kaukau.

In a simple and eloquent letter of gratitude, Kekela wrote:

"Ah! I greatly honor your interest in this countryman of yours. It is, indeed, in keeping with all I have known of your acts as president of the United States."

ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON, who loved the natives and thought the white man's civilization a curse to them, once saw Kekela's letter and said:

"I do not envy the man who can read it without emotion."

In time the gold watch became battered as the proud Kekela beat it against his pulpit, exhorting his people to give up eating the "puaka enata" forever.

The watch now belongs to the Hawaiian Mission Children's Society in Honolulu. Inside the case is this inscription in Hawaiian:

"From the President of the United States to Rev. J. Kekela for his noble conduct in rescuing an American citizen from death on the island of Hiva-oa January 14, 1864."

OHIO MAPS CANCER DRIVE

...ces Are Mobilized in ...ttempt To Cut High Death Rate.

...the Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 12—Ohio ...ing forces to reduce its ... rate from cancer, ... Director John D. ... said yesterday.

... in the cancer problem ... made public by Dr. ... declared "the develop... a well-rounded state ... program will, in time, re... the cancer mortality."

... Ohio cancer facilities sur... published by the state ... department, said "Ohio's ... are being mobilized to a heretofore unprecedented degree to control cancer."

"Three groups," it said, "have taken the lead in the vigorous fight which is being waged to shackle malignant diseases—diseases which are claiming the lives of 10,000 Ohioans annually."

These groups are the Ohio division of the American Cancer Society, the Cancer committee of the Ohio State Medical Association and the Ohio Department of Health.

The survey, made by Dr. Lewis C. Robbins of the U. S. public Health Service, reported:

Survey Report

"Cancer caused the death of 10,618 persons in Ohio in 1945. The cancer death rate for that year was 144.3 per 100,000 population."

"The age group over 45 years, representing 36.5 per cent of Ohio's population, has 95 per cent of cancer deaths. One in every 6.7 persons over 45 will die of cancer.

"The cancer mortality rate in Ohio is somewhat higher than that for the United States, because Ohio has a population in the higher age group."

Dr. Porterfield said cancer control agencies would use the report "as a baseline" for a new survey later in the year on progress made in the battle against the disease.

"Ohio has launched cancer control activities and has created a division of cancer," Dr. Porterfield said. "The position as chief of this division was filled Jan. 1 of this year by the appointment of Dr. Walter B. Laccock."

Content of Ohio Program

"The content of the Ohio program," the director said, "has been confined largely to the collection and assembly of information relative to cancer facilities available to the Ohio public. In addition, this department has the responsibility of making allotments to the local health departments in the form of cooperative budgets in which federal grants-in-aid funds are distributed.

"It is required that these funds be matched against funds or services provided by the local health department, the local medical society and the local unit of the cancer society. It is further required that local health departments be full-time units in order to participate in this allotment.

"Consideration is being given," Dr. Porterfield said, "to the establishment of a central registry in the cancer division, to which all cases of cancer discovered in the state will be reported with such information as shall permit measurement of the cancer problem, not only in total numbers, but in relation to age of incidence, type and location of cancer and results of therapy. Material for this registry will be collected from Diagnostics clinics initially.

Report on 20 Clinics

The survey gave a report on 20 cancer clinics in Ohio.

"Two important findings of the survey," the report said, "were that cancer clinics have far outstripped their stenographic services, secondly, the follow up service for delinquent patients is inadequate.

The purpose of the follow-up service," the report explained, "is to persuade delinquent patients to return when they lapse in their clinic visits for diagnosis or treatment. By failing to return, the cancer patient not only throws away all the medical effort expended up to that time, an extremely precious commodity today, but frequently, in addition, his only chance for survival."

The report stated that "the Lakeside clinic, in Cleveland, through its excellent follow-up system, has secured completion of treatment for patients examined in over 90 per cent of its cases."

Jaffa, in Palestine, often has been a busy port in its long history, although it does not have a good harbor.

MAKES STATEMENT. Frank Handy (above), son of the publisher of the Ypsilanti, Mich., Press, talks on the phone from Chicago, where he attended Inland Daily Press association meeting. Handy said the White House is denying reports that he will be betrothed to Margaret Truman, the President's daughter, and "I'll stand on that." (Associated Press photo)

THIRD PARTY SPLIT FEARED BY MURRAY

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Feb. 12—A third party this year would "split and divide" labor and result in election of a "reactionary congress," declares CIO President Philip Murray.

"I don't know of a single voluntary thing that a third party can do except split and divide labor," Murray told the 13th national convention of the CIO-Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers Tuesday.

"The mere fact of the propagation of the third party, if it is propagated in the United States in 1948, will be to create confusion among very conscientious men and weaken the movement. I do not favor the idea that we will form a third party in 1948 which will then face an inevitable defeat.

"We will be responsible for the election of a reactionary congress in 1948, and then after the people have had four years of Fascism, they will get fired and elect a liberal congress in 1952, and I am afraid of that sort of thinking because if the reactionaries are elected in 1948 I am a little afraid that we won't have too many labor union conventions in 1952.

"A reactionary congress in 1948," the CIO president added, "will not repeal the Taft-Hartley act. A reactionary congress in 1948 will not stabilize your national economy, give you better housing, or more adequate social security. A reactionary congress in 1948 will bend its efforts, if it possibly can, toward your ultimate destruction and the destruction of all the things which you and I hold sacred."

Murray never mentioned third party presidential candidate Henry Wallace by name, but he did assert:

"I don't know of any important labor leader in any labor organization throughout the United States was consulted about the institution of a third party in 1948.

"I think that if a third party is ever going to be instituted in the United States, it will come from a broad meeting of representative groups of people. There the matter will be discussed and the rules set, and the people will go ahead supporting a platform allied with the well-established principles of the truly representative group of peoples who purport to represent substantial groups of the population. That has not occurred in this instance."

Aggregate special taxes on motor vehicles in the United States reached a new high of $2,507,000,000 in 1948.

Love's Perilous Path

By ADELE GARRISON

...my own brain reel- ...time Carlotta Car- ...her story of how ...winked Otto, trait- ...exiled Queen Olga, ...his mistress, Laura, ...mysterious friend, ...ndra, whose name we ...heard for the first ...

...between her child- ..., and the story of ...w with the traitors ...d told us was so in- ...that I caught myself ...if she herself might ...been hoodwinked, and ...given an entirely er- ...unt of Otto's activi- ...was no thought in ...e in that of any oth- ...auditors, I was sure, ...herself had not act- ...good faith.

"...father evidently be- ...Otto had trusted her. ...didn't tell us all the ...heard," he said. "Just ...the all-important one, ...etailed to 'K.'"

Carlotta Carroll went ...told me—he had had ...drink, as usual—that ...part treasure buried in ...vaults beneath the ...Transylvanian royal castle, ...had been burned ...down stone by stone to ...found in the fury of the ...Turks had dug and hunted ...the treasure, of which they ...had heard rumors, but it was ...buried in vaults so deep beneath ...the surface, that no trace of it ...had been found.

"...told me," she went on, ...that there was a secret way into ...the castle.

"He also said that only seven ...people knew the secret of that en- ...trance himself, his brother, Pie- ...ro, his mother, Olga, his sister, ...Elena, and three old retainers of ...the Transylvanian royal house ...whose great grandfathers several ...times removed had known the se- ...cret when the castle was built, ...and had sent it down in trust to ...their descendants. He said those ...three would be torn into pieces ...before they'd reveal it."

Carlotta paused, for breath. I ...objectured, and my father did ...so hurry her.

"But the thing that worried him ...most," she went on after a min- ...ute, "was the fact that those three ...old retainers were loyal to their ...queen, Olga, and not to him. They ...would not aid any emissary of ...his and without their aid, Dolores ...could not hope to gain access to ...the treasure, or to get it out of ...the vaults. But he knew that ...Olga presenting Olga's signa- ...ture to a letter written in her ...own handwriting on her own note ...paper with her royal crest would ...convince them that she was Olga's ...emissary, not his, and that they ...would act accordingly."

I looked at my father expectant- ...ly. Would he tell her that she ...was wrong, that those old servants ...would heed no message from Ol- ...ga unless it bore the royal seal ...of her signet ring which was now ...hidden, safe from everybody in ...my father's safety deposit vault?

But, characteristically, he was ...not telling all he knew.

"Otto appears to be very sure of ...his ground," he said, and for an ...instant something shrewd, ques- ...tioning, flashed in Carlotta's lus- ...trous eyes. But the next instant it ...was gone again—I was not quite ...sure that I had seen it—but I ...retained the impression that child- ...like and trustful as she appeared, ...she was not wholly guileless, and ...could not easily be fooled.

"Yes, he always has been very ...sure of his own destiny," she said, ...and then my father prodded her ...again.

"I believe you said that Otto ...suggested the forged notes from ...his mother, on her note paper," he ...said.

Making Party Sandwiches

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY LOAF . . . with hatchets.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

When I was at college we used to make wonderful sandwich productions—three layer ones with different kinds of fillings, rolled ones with asparagus or watercress, checker-board tidbits with white and graham bread. They were perfect for large teas and they always made a hit.

One of the secrets of their mass production was the way we cut the bread. We'd get long sandwich loaves, cut off all the crusts and slice the loaf the long way. Then these long slices could be buttered and filled with one long spread of the knife and they could be easily layered and cut into strips, squares or triangle of practically any size. Next time you want to make a lot of good-looking sandwiches try this assembly line method and see if you don't enjoy it. A Washington Birthday party loaf can be decorated with little hatchets made out of strips of pimiento.

There's another point to remember in sandwich making: use softened butter or margarine. It may be softened by letting it stand for a while in a warm room or by creaming it with a wooden spoon. If you have an electric mixer you'll find it does a fine job of creaming the fat, too. Never use melted butter because it soaks into the bread, doesn't go as far and just doesn't taste as good.

A frosted three-decker sandwich loaf, as shown here, is of course a wonderful thing to see and to eat. It's a meal in itself and will go beautifully for the main part of a buffet luncheon if you accompany it with salad and dessert. In serving at buffet be sure to use appropriate serving pieces so that your guests will find it easy to help themselves. There's nothing I dislike more than having to struggle to get something off a platter with an inadequate small spoon or fork. I've used regular cake or pie servers such as the Danish Princess one shown here, for these sandwich loaves and find it does beautifully.

Sandwich Loaf

One unsliced loaf of bread, 3 3-ounce packages cream cheese, 3 tablespoons milk, 1 teaspoon finely grated onion, ½ teaspoon salt.

Slice the crusts from all sides of the loaf. Cut loaf lengthwise into four slices. Spread the first layer with chicken-tongue filling. Cover with another slice of bread. Spread it with egg filling. Cover it with a bread slice. Spread the slice with crabmeat filling. Top with remaining slice of bread. Mix well the cream cheese (which has been left at room temperature to soften) with milk, onion and salt. Frost the loaf with the cream cheese mixture.

Chicken-Tongue Filling

One-half cup ground cooked tongue, ½ cup ground cooked chicken, 1 tablespoon prepared brown mustard, 2 teaspoons minced onion, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons minced green pepper, 2 tablespoons mayonnaise.

Combine the tongue and chicken with the remaining ingredients and mix well. Makes about one cup of filling.

Egg Filling

Three chopped hard cooked eggs, 2 teaspoons prepared brown mustard, 3 tablespoons chopped stuffed olives, ½ cup minced celery, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons minced pickles, 1½ tablespoons mayonnaise.

Combine the ingredients in the order listed and mix well. Makes about one cup filling.

Crabmeat Filling

One (6½ oz.) can crabmeat, 4 tablespoons minced celery, 2 teaspoons prepared brown mustard, 3 tablespoons chopped pimiento, 1 teaspoon finely grated onion, 2 tablespoons mayonnaise.

Combine the contents of the can of crabmeat with the remaining ingredients. Makes about one and one-fourth cups of filling.

Fake Lincoln Photographs Handicap Scholars' Research

By The Associated Press

...FIELD, Ill., Feb. 12—...ictures of Abraham ...ent by their owners ...e valuable, have pro...ented research tasks ...scholars since his ...e 130. But only oc...es a photograph ...authentic.

...ments count a little ...20 authentic photo... have been discov... this year, the 139th ...r the birth of the ...ation.

...ham of Springfield, ... historian and au... Lincolniana, says one ...l of the photographic ...ld be dangerous not ...o answer." There is always a chance, he says, that a new picture might be uncovered.

Lincoln scholars were rewarded for time-consuming investigations during 1947 with discovery of two new Lincoln photographs —one in Decatur, Ill., and another in New York.

To the knowledge of Lincoln scholars, no picture was ever taken of Lincoln and his wife together. Yet, Monaghan relates, the Illinois State Historical Library receives from eight to ten letters a year from persons claiming to have a rare photograph of Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln.

The historical library probably has the largest collection of Lincoln literature in the world. It has a file of many pictures of Lincoln and his wife which are not authentic.

LINCOLN SCHOLAR Monaghan

A number of them are made from a well-known picture of Lincoln, sitting in a chair and reading to one of his sons standing at his side. Likenesses of Mrs. Lincoln and their two other sons are pasted on, sometimes to the right of Lincoln and sometimes to the left.

Monaghan opines that Lincoln's picture on the five-dollar bill is a "semi-phony." He tells this story:

The engraving on the currency was done by William Edgar Marshall from a portrait which Marshall claims to have painted from life while reading law in Lincoln's Springfield office. This engraving shows Lincoln with a beard, but he didn't start raising a beard until later.

Your Good Health

By DR. HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

What To Do for "Pink Eye"

Conjunctivitis, or inflammation of the lining membrane of the eye, is something which most of us have experienced at one time or another. Since this disorder is so common, it is fortunate that it is rarely serious.

Vision is threatened in only rare instances, when the inflammation is due to gonococcc germs or when there is trachoma. These seem to be the only germs causing the inflammation of the membrane which are also capable of invading the cornea or dark portion of the eye.

When this occurs, there will be pain as well as sensitivity to light. Naturally, any patient with this type of conjunctivitis should be under the care of a specialist, since it involves danger of permanent damage to the eyes.

Usually, however, conjunctivitis is not painful. As a general rule it is accompanied by an inflammation of the eyelids, known as blepharitis. Ordinarily, there is a discharge from the eyes and the lids are stuck together when the patient awakens in the morning. The eyelashes are usually matted together and the conjunctivitis reddened and inflamed. If there is a great deal of swelling in the tissues, but not much discharge, it is probable that the conjunctivitis is due to a virus infection.

Sometimes, in elderly people, the eye is dry, and the lining membrane becomes sore and sticky. This is due to a lack of the normal amount of tear formation. In such cases, there is also dryness of the mouth. The eye condition is called kerato-conjunctivitis sicca.

Infection of the conjunctiva may occur with the formation of ulcers or sores. Infection of the eye can also occur in tularemia and in diphtheria.

Sometimes conjunctivitis is due to allergy or sensitivity to dusts or pollens. The attacks in such cases, usually occur during the spring months.

The treatment for conjunctivitis depends, to some extent, upon the type of infection present. In most instances, the conjunctivitis clears up within a short period of time with proper treatment. The eye may be irrigated with various antiseptic solutions. Penicillin, as well as sulfonamide ointments, may be employed in the eye with benefit. Some boracic ointment, placed between the lids at night, is helpful in keeping the lids from sticking together.

In some cases, the physician will want to take a culture from the eye to determine what germs are producing the condition, before carrying out the necessary treatment.

Questions and Answers

P. M.: I have an irritation in my throat which causes me to cough. I do not smoke or drink. What could cause this trouble?

Answer: It is possible that you have a chronic infection of one of the sinuses in the nose. Material dripping into the nose and throat will cause an irritation of this type. A chronic infection of lymph tissue might cause the same disorder.

A careful study should be made by a throat specialist.

Sports Shorts

By BILL DIEM
Star Sports Editor

THE signs point to a banner year for the Marion Cubs this season, maybe even a pennant . . . W. Dexter Hazen, president of the Marion Baseball club, passed along the word of Jack Sheehan, farm director of the parent Chicago Cubs, that the locals will at least place in the first division of the eight-team Ohio-Indiana league . . . And that means the organization will send the Cubs enough help to finish in the top four if they need it.

The local ball club has come a long way since it was first organized in 1944. They played their first game only two days after they were accepted members of the new Ohio State league and were caught shorthanded in the matter of a ball club as well as stadium facilities . . . In that first game "Bud" Leffler peddled ducats at the gate and made change out of his pocket. Fortunately for him they sold at a buck apiece . . . Announcements were made through a megaphone, and there weren't any lights on the park . . . In mid-season, the ball club became affiliated with the Cubs, who couldn't promise much help—and didn't send much—and the locals finished a low last place.

IN 1945, the club latched on the Cards and stayed with them the following season, but returnd to the Cub fold last year. They finished fifth in a six-team circuit in 1945, sixth in an eight-team loop in '46, and last year jumped to a solid second.

The attendance figures rose with the Cub climb up the ladder. They played to 33,000 paid admissions in their first year, 51,000 the second, then 76,000, and last year 82,000 . . . The Cubs drew so well last season that the Columbus Red Birds turned slightly green with envy . . . They hope to do even better this season and are planning stadium improvements to help out.

TOPPING THE list of planned improvements in the stadium are fitting the box seats with cast aluminum backs, making box seats out of the two 24-seat stands flanking the grandstand, and moving the light poles in front of the new box seats back out of the way . . . Work will get underway after the Cub lease of Lincoln Park has been signed, which is expected in the near future, and when warmer weather permits work . . . The additional box seats will swell the total to 182. The grandstand holds 1400.

Location of the Cub's spring training has not yet been set, but it will start about the first of April after the Chicago Cub school for managers, scouts and newly released servicemen is completed in St. Augustine, Fla. . . Cub manager Zeke Bekeza will be among the managers conditioning and training in that school, which starts March 15.

Two Fox Hunts Set Saturday Morning

Two fox hunts will be held Saturday, O. H. Nelmeyer, county game protector, announced today.

One will start at the Green Camp township hall at 9 a. m. Saturday, and the other will begin at the Norton school at 9. Buses will be furnished.

Mt. Olive Grange is sponsoring the Green Camp hunt and the Norton P.-T.A. the other.

Proceeds will go to stocking the two areas with game.

Nelmeyer said the hunts are being held to clear the areas of foxes before stocking them with game.

Bishops Strengthen Conference Lead, But Not Without Trouble from Denison

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 12—Ohio Wesleyan strengthened its Ohio college conference basketball league lead last night, but not without considerable trouble from much-beaten Denison.

The final score, 56-45, failed to indicate the bitter fight Denison's Big Red put up before going down to its tenth loss in 12 games.

Denison, playing before a home crowd at Granville, jumped in front early and stayed there for the first half which ended, 24-23.

The Big Red kept that one-point margin through the first three minutes of the second half. Then Wesleyan's Battling Bishops found the range and roared to a nine-point lead. But Denison wouldn't quit, pulling to 45-42 with four minutes left.

Wesleyan's center, Jack Thompson, clinched the game at that point with two quick rebounds and over-the-head shot from the corner. Wesleyan coasted home.

It was the Bishops' seventh win against one loss in conference play and widened their edge over second-place Wooster (8-2).

Elsewhere last night, guard Don Canfield sank a free throw in the last second as Defiance upset Anderson, Ind., 64-62; Youngstown staved off a furious Washington and Jefferson rally, 59-57; Eppa Rixey connected for 31 points as Kenyon trimmed once-mighty University of Chicago 63-57; St. Vincent's of Pennsylvania routed Steubenville, 70-54, and Ohio university's Chillicothe branch dumped Wilberforce Church, 51-44.

The six foot-six inch Rixey was the entire show as Kenyon handed Chicago its twelfth loss. He hooked a dozen field goals and seven free throws. Chicago's Ray Freark hit 19.

COUNTY CAGE TOURNEY SCHEDULE CORRECTED

The county basketball tournament schedule for the first night of play Friday night given in The Star yesterday had the locations of the play reversed.

On the New Bloomington court starting at 7:30 p. m. are scheduled the following games: Waldo vs. Meeker, and Prospect vs. New Bloomington.

On the Morral court it will be Martel vs. Green Camp and Claridon vs. Kirkpatrick.

ST. MARY OUT FOR MT. GILEAD SCALP

St. Mary, after absorbing a 33-29 defeat at the hands of Sunbury on Tuesday, will be out to start a new win streak tomorrow night when they journey to Mt. Gilead to do battle with the battle weary Indians.

The Gileads, still seeking their first win in the Mid-State circuit, are holding the cellar spot, and will stay there if present Irish plans are carried out. They have no intentions of losing this one.

Gene Fetter's cagers, usually handicapped on a small court, will also have the Gilead zone defense to contend with tomorrow night. The zone and a small court combined are tough to beat. Mt. Gilead defeated the Irish last year on their own hardwoods with that combination.

The St. Mary Irish are still in second place in the Mid-State league. Marysville, leading the league, is not out of reach of the St. Mary crew. With a win over the Mt. Gilead team, and another over the Monarchs in the final game of the season, the Irish can end with a tie for top standing in the Mid-State loop.

Starting for St. Mary tomorrow night will be Dick Drake at center, Dick Schuler and John Baldauf at forwards, Dan Smith and Bob "Sticky" Stuber at guards.

GERALD KARVER, Penn State's miler, is the man to watch on the indoor tracks now that Galloping Gil Dodds is out of the running with a case of the mumps. Karver, who starts slow but finishes fast, has the speed and class to run a 4:04 mile, says his coach, Ray Conger.

SIGNS WITH MONTREAL

By The Associated Press

MONTREAL, Feb. 12—Sanford Lambert, who won 23 and lost eight for Zanesville of the Ohio State league in 1947, signed with the Montreal Royals of the International league yesterday.

PREXIES POINT FOR ASHLAND TOMORROW

The Harding Presidents, holders of two victories in a row, will be out for their third straight and win No. 6 of the season tomorrow night at Edison when they play host to the visiting Taylor Tots from Ashland.

Ashland's A's, ranking up with the top fives in the state, will bring a veteran cage machine here and will be out to take their fourteenth win. Their single defeat came at the hands of Mansfield.

While the Ashland cagers will be looking for another win, the Prexies will be out for revenge, having lost to the A's in their first encounter by a score of 56 to 37. Nothing could be sweeter, and nothing could give the Prexies more prestige than a victory over Dick Messner and his sharp Ashland crew.

The A's plan to spend the night in Marion, and then travel to Culver, Ind., where they'll meet the boys in the military academy Saturday night.

Reserve game time is 7 p. m.

Galion Pistol Team Defeats Prospect

GALION, Feb. 12—Galion's pistol team defeated the Prospect team 1044 to 909 out of a possible 1200 at the Galion range Monday night. High scorers for the winners were Bender, Lucius, Sells, and Hill, ranking from first to fourth in the order named, while the top men on the Prospect team were D. Hinton Norris, A. Hinton, and Watkins. Bowman, Smith Knickel, McCoy, Rhineheart, Tuller, and Walker also fired on the Galion team, and Rickey. White, and Redmon completed the lineup for the Prospect shooters.

A return match between the two pistol clubs will be staged at the Prospect range Feb. 2.

At the regular meeting of the Prospect Rifle and Pistol club last Friday, Bob Gabriel and C. B. Gast were appointed range officers. Application will be made to the director of civilian marksmanship for .30 caliber rifles and ammunition for training purposes. Each member will be required to fire one .30 caliber course a year if the application is accepted.

Former Coach Challenges Eligibility Of San Francisco University Gridders

By The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 12—The University of San Francisco said today 18 of 22 of its football players whose eligibility was questioned by former Coach Ed McKeever "are absolutely in the clear."

In a letter made public yesterday, McKeever challenged the eligibility of many players who came to U.S.F. last season—his only year as coach here.

McKeever also asserted the boys were paid "the usual $75 $50 and $40 a month plus, in some cases, a substantial amount over that figure."

The letter was dated Jan. 31, the day McKeever resigned to become coach of the professional Chicago Rockets of the All-America Conference. Copies were sent to Commissioner Victor O. Schmidt of the Pacific Coast Conference and officials of several colleges on the U.S.F. 1948 football schedule.

McKeever's charges stirred a tempest on the campus.

Charles Harney, chairman of the board of athletic control, said: "We had made a mistake in hiring McKeever and we were just beginning to realize it. He had made the situation—and we were stuck with it."

The Rev. Jerome J. Sullivan, athletic moderator, said 18 of the players cited by McKeever are eligible and that "in only one case is the ineligibility positive."

He conceded athletes were paid for work on the campus but denied McKeever's charge that they were paid "a substantial amount over the $40-$50-$75 rate.

Joe Kuharich, one of three U.S.F. assistant coaches who feuded with McKeever last year and who succeeded him as head coach, termed his former boss' action "vindictive and spiteful."

McKeever, now in Chicago, declined comment.

Citation Wins 10th Race in 11 Starts

By The Associated Press

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 12—Race goers agreed today there's nothing wrong with Calumet's great gelding. Armed, but most of the talk was about his stablemate, Citation.

The winter book favorite for the Kentucky Derby won his 10th race in 11 starts by taking the $10,000 added Seminole handicap at Hialeah park yesterday, with Armed finishing a strong third.

Delegate finished a head in front of the fast-closing Armed. A. F. Plock's Tavistock was fourth and Calumet's third horse in the nine-horse race. Faultless was fifth.

Wrestling Here Tonight

Whitey Walberg, the blond from Milwaukee who is making Columbus his home now, returns to the Marion mat after an absence of better than a year. Walberg's opponent tonight at the armory will be a grappler who hasn't shown here in several years, Red Lyons, the "Rough Hombre from Beaumont, Texas." Marion wrestling fans have been asking for different faces and that is just what the promotor is trying to do. Tonight's card is another double main event with both matches going the ninety minute route with the best two out of three falls.

The other man event is between the two winners of last Thursday's matches, Paul Orth and Bill Murray. These two should round out a very good program in keeping with the last two shows.

A ten minute prelim between Fritz Barlow and James Stewart will start the show at 8:30. Prices (all taxes paid) 50c-75c-$1.00. Call 2745 after six for your best ringside seats.—Adv.

Middletown Has 5 Obstacles To Hurdle Before Gaining Another Ohio Cage Title

By The United Press

COLUMBUS, Feb. 12—Middletown, touted by many as the toughest team in Ohio high school basketball after winning three out of four class "A" championships, today could count five very large obstacles looming in its path to a fourth title.

They were, and not necessarily in the order of their danger: Findlay, Newark, Canton Township, Hamilton Catholic, and Hamilton.

Hamilton Catholic, winner of 16 this season against only one loss, will be out to get the Middies in the district semi-finals. The Rams, who dropped a 30-29 heartbreaker to the Middies in the Dayton semi-finals last year, have eight of the same boys ready to try again in the coming district tourney.

Newark, Hamilton Ready

Newark, perrenial powers of the Delaware district, and Hamilton Public, both were nosed out by Middletown by two points this season and think they might be able to whip the champs. Hamilton will get another try Feb. 27 before they tourney starts.

Findlay, semi-finalist at Columbus last year, sports a 16-0 record at the present time and is consideerd the Middies main threat. And Canton Township has a powerful group of veterans who dominate the northeastern section and have had only one loss chalked up against them—to Canton Central Catholic—later avenged in no uncertain terms.

Middletown has four games remaining on its schedule before starting the tournament steamroller — Springfield, Cincinnati Hughes, Xenia Central, and Hamilton. Springfield, a traditional foe, could catch the Middies off-guard Friday night.

East Liverpool, runner-up to Middletown for the state title, will have a chance this weekend to prove that the winning of its last seven games was no fluke. The Potters, who will play strong Canton McKinley Saturday and Warren Friday, lost six games earlier in the season.

Ashland, loser only to Mansfield's Tygers, will vie for top billing with the opening of the Ashland county class "B" tournament when it plays Marion Harding Friday. Saturday the Taylor Tots will travel to Culver, Ind., to take on the military academy there.

Lima Games

At Lima, Central will host Chillicothe Friday night and Dayton Roosevelt will visit South. Salem, victim of East Liverpool's victorious surge, will visit Struthers Friday and Toronto will be at Wellsville.

Tuesday night, Glenford, aptly named king of the B's, notched its 26th straight win in a close game with Fraseyburg, 62-56. Glenn Hursey, the Golden Horde hotshot, hit for 27 points to bring his season total to 685. Newark cinched the Central Ohio league title Tuesday night by whipping Lancaster, 58-44.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

by Hugh S. Fullerton, jr.

NEW YORK, Feb. 12—It is rather startling to hear Branch Rickey, usually a pretty cagey gent, emit statements like: "It's an unhealthy situation in American sports when a boy can't take a better offer." . . . Rickey was referring to his $110,000 bid for Charley Conerly, who, he says, is "committed" to the Giants . . . No one has yet explained just what that commitment is and Conerly once disclaimed knowledge of the Rickey offer . . . . Nevertheless Rickey for many years has been in the baseball business, where a kid can take the best offer available when he's just breaking into the low-class minor leagues but isn't even allowed to listen to offers once he has signed a contract.

NOW THAT THEY'VE acquired Eddie Miller, the Phillies have at least five shortstops on their list—Miller, Ralph LaPointe, Jackie Albright, Gran Hamner (up from Utica) and Grady Wilson (rescued via draft from the Cardinal chain). Fans are beginning to dream about trades that whould make the Phils a first-division club.

CENTRAL JUNIORS DOWN EDISON, 41-10

Jack Daum and Jim Russell paced Central Junior High school to a 41-10 win over Edison yesterday, counting 17 and 13 points, respectively. The losers failed to connect on a field goal during the first half, but counted three in the last two periods.

The Central Reserves won, 18-16, paced by Colby with 10 markers. Thomas and Smith meshed six aplece for Edison.

SMITTY'S MAIDS WIN

Betty Foust paced Smitty's Maids to a 68-23 win over the Lemert, O., girls in a basketball game on the Y. M. C. A. court last night. Betty snared 21 points but Mabel Wright and Helen Mochel were right behind with 16 and 14. Miriam Walter led the losers with 12.

PROSPECT ALL STARS SEEK 13TH VICTORY

The Prospect All Stars will be gunning for their eighth straight win and their thirteenth in 16 starts tonight when they entertain the Delaware Screw Products in the top game of a twin bill on the Prospect hardwoods.

The Prospect Merchants will meet the Navy club of Marion in the other fray.

The Delaware aggregation has lost but one game this season and strong men in its lineup are Len Visci, Miami university cage star last year and now coach of the Delaware Willis Panthers; and Dave Rayburn, former Delaware coach now a well-known basketball official in this area.

Probable starters for the All Stars are Kessler and Kirby at forward, Smith at center, and Cochran, Williams, and Oehler at guards.

British-U. S. Cooperation Good In Sicily, Lord Alexander Writes

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Feb. 12—British-American cooperation made the conquest of Sicily a success in 38 days, but the airborne phase of the attack was less than fortunate," Field Marshal Lord Alexander said today.

Alexander, who was commander-in-chief of the Sicilian operation, said in a report to the war office released today that there were frequent changes in allied strategy before the landings.

He told of efforts to persuade Gen. George S. Patton that the American Seventh Army was not being relegated to a secondary role. His report gave generous praise to the late American commander for inspiring leadership and vigor.

The conquest turned out well, Alexander said, but the airborne attack of July 10, 1943, failed to do all that had been expected.

The landings were not strongly resisted, but the men who traveled from Malta and North Africa in gliders and transport planes had to fight stormy weather.

"The wind was still blowing at some 40 miles an hour when the parachutists were dropped and the gliders released," the report said. "Many of the pilots of the transport and tow aircraft who had no previous experience in actual operations, ran into difficulties with the navigation or were disconcerted by enemy anti-aircraft fire.

"The result was that the American Airborne troops were scattered in small parties over an area of some 50 miles from Licata to Noto. In the Eighth (British) Army's area nearly 50 of the 134 gliders of the first air-landing brigade which took off from Tunisia came down in the sea, about 75 came safely to land somewhere in southeastern Sicily, and only 12 landed in the correct dropping zone.

"However, * * * the effect on the nerves of the none-too-steady Italian troops of these airborne forces all over southeastern Sicily was of utmost value to the assault.

"Small isolated units of parachutists seized vital points, attacked roads and created widespread panic which undoubtedly disorganized all plans for defense."

FIELD MARSHAL ALEXANDER

Disagree on Strategy

There were disagreements as to strategy among land, sea and air commanders. The greatest question to settle was whether to attack all around Sicily at many places or to concentrate on a few spots. The first plan accepted by the allied command called for considerable dispersion and under it Patton would have been told to take the city of Palermo at once and make it his base.

Other opinion prevailed, however, and after he had been thinking about Palermo for weeks Patton was told to recast preparations so as to limit immediate landings to the south coast. The more spectacular assignment of taking Syracuse, Augusta and possibly Messina was assigned to Gen. Montgomery's Eighth army.

"It might well seem that the American troops were being given the tougher and less spectacular tasks," Alexander reported. "Their beaches were more exposed than the Eighth Army's and some there were awkward sandbars, they would have only one small port for maintenance, and the Eighth army would have the glory of capturing the more obviously attractive objectives * * * names which would bulk larger in the headlines than Gela or Licata or the obscure townships of southern Sicily."

Alexander said he "felt a natural anxiety about American reactions."

"I wish to place on record here," he wrote, "that General Patton at once fell in with my new plan, the military advantages of which were as clear to him as to me, and neither he nor anyone in the Seventh Army raised any form of objection. It is an impressive example of the spirit of complete loyalty and inter-allied cooperation which inspired all operations with which I was associated in the Mediterranean theater."

35—PUBLIC SALES

Attention!
I have sold the building at 125 Mill St. to Wilson & Sakel. They are now remodeling it for their new and used furniture store which will open soon. It is certainly a pleasure for me to see the two fine young men open this store on Mill St.—which will be one of the most complete stocks in Marion territory. I will not be connected with the store in any way—although I wish them success and believe they will render a service to the public which will be appreciated by everyone. While looking over the Wilson & Sakel new store don't forget to stop in at the Wilson & Williams Auction House and Public Sale office at 125 Mill and say "Hello". Where friends meet friends. Yes, we are always glad to see you. Remember our Phone number is 2786—as before.

French Living Longer Despite Hardships

By The United Press

PARIS—Despite eight years of food shortages, lack of heat and grave financial worries, Frenchmen are living longer than ever before.

The ministry of public health announced that the death rate hit a new low in 1946: 13.4 out of every 1,000. This compares with 16.8 in 1945 and 20 out of every 1,000 in 1944, the year of the invasion.

The country of 90-year-old Phillppe Petain and other aged ex-statesmen and generals also is producing more children than ever before. The birth rate is 38 per cent over the pre-war one, the ministry announced. Yet although more children are being born, infant mortality is steadily decreasing.

The coastal plains of Judaea and Samaria in Palestine form a region resembling Southern California.
